

Spellbound

Deep concentration is reflected in the top two faces of contestants in the 45th annual National Spelling Bee in Washington. Karen M. Hillyer, Homestead, Fla., top, used the old hand-in-the-mouth method, while Terrance Walfoort, Jr., St. Paul, Minn., achieved a state of deep concentration, center. But Robin Kral, Lamesa, Tex., had the winning expression after he spelled garnett to take first place in the contest today. (UPI)

Water Department Praised at Session

The Sedalia Board of Public Works reviewed the fiscal 1971-72 audit in its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night and was told the Water Department was doing a "remarkable job."

The board also installed a new member, voiced no objection to the formation of the independent Maplewood Water District, and started the ball rolling to apply for a 50 per cent matching grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for future improvements in the local water system.

Harry Hempy, of the Kansas City accounting firm of Haskins and Sells, discussed the audit report and said it contained no exemptions or faults.

The largest item in the auditor's statement was a "modest increase in revenues" — $320,000 generated by the water department. Herb Taylor, manager, said much of that amount had been reinvested in the new plant building and equipment. A second feature outlined in the audit was the growth of the water works surplus account, which increased in the past fiscal year by $65,000 to a total of more than $120,000.

Taylor said although the surplus was commendable, it was far short of the estimated $850,000 that may be needed to finance necessary environmental improvements by the federally-established 1976 deadline. He explained that the proposed HUD grant would be used to supplement the surplus sum in order to take care of whatever we have to do to meet the standards of both the Missouri Water Pollution Board and federal pollution regulations."

He said the exact standards the company will have to meet will not be known until a $3,500 study by Black and Veatch, consulting engineers, is complete. Funds for the study, which Taylor said would be finished in about four months, were authorized Wednesday night.

According to Taylor, the water department hopes to obtain a temporary permit to continue dumping alum, lime and mud "sludge" from its filtering system back into Flat Creek. He told those present, "We are breaking the law now, but we have no place else to go."

He said that he has not yet received complaints from citizens regarding the action. He added he was recently informed that previous plans to dump 90 per cent of the sludge water into the city's proposed southwest sewage lagoons would not be allowed by the federal government.

"They didn't say why we couldn't use the lagoon. We may have to eventually build our own lagoon," Taylor said Thursday.

The Black and Veatch study will essentially determine the standards applicable to Flat Creek regarding the amount of permissible pollutants that can be injected into the stream. For example, Taylor explained, materials deposited in

Kit Bond Requests Spending Reforms

ST. LOUIS (AP) — State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond called today for broad election law spending reforms and said until the laws can be changed all candidates should follow his lead in full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures.

"Missouri has had too much of government behind closed doors and politics in secrecy," he said in a position paper released at a St. Louis news conference.

He called the present Corrupt Practices Act on campaign financing "weak and unenforceable" and said "one of the reasons for public skepticism about government today is that no one knows how much, or the source, of money being spent for political elections."

Along with changes in the law by setting up a state elections commission to investigate and enforce campaign spending rules, he called on all candidates to comply voluntarily with new open disclosure guidelines.

Bond said he would file a complete list of contributions between five and 10 days before the primary election and has asked his campaign committees to do the same.

He also urged all candidates to file a statement of their economic interests with the secretary of state.

Bond said he had told employees in his office they would not have to contribute to his campaign through a "lug" or "flower fund" to hold their jobs.

"There is a growing concern in this country," he said, "that campaigns are far too dependent on the financial support of special interest groups and wealthy contributors."

Besides establishment of a state elections commission on a nonpartisan basis, with members being chosen the same as Supreme Court judges, Bond said loopholes in the present law should be plugged by the next legislature. He called that a "must" for the 1973 session.

The 1972 legislature ignored Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' recommendations for reform in the campaign spending laws.

"As long as these (present) limitations can easily be circumvented," Bond said, "the cost of campaigning will increase."

He urged that candidates and their immediate families be limited to contributions of $35,000 or two cents times the state's population, whichever is the lesser, with similar limits on local and district elections.

Each candidate should designate one political committee as his official committee and all other committees should be required to remit all contributions and list the donors to the main committee.

The principal committee should be required to report on disposition of surplus funds and deficits at the end of the campaign.

U.S. Airplanes Increase Strikes on North Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes pounded North Vietnam on Wednesday with the heaviest raids in three weeks, the U.S. Command announced, and one group of planes guided a bomb into a railroad tunnel just south of the Chinese border and blew it up.

American B52 bombers returned to North Vietnam for the first time in nearly two months, the command said, but they struck less than 20 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

In South Vietnam, the Communist offensive began its 11th week, and several hundred North Vietnamese troops pushed into the district town of Trang Bang 25 miles northwest of Saigon. This kept the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway closed for the third day and triggered fierce fighting. On the northern front above Hue, more than 2,000 South Vietnamese marines launched their fourth spoiling and intelligence-gathering operation in a month into Quang Tri Province. Initial reports said they met only light resistance. The marines were supported by a task force of U.S. cruisers and destroyers and scores of American bombers.

The U.S. Command said American fighter-bombers flew more than 300 strikes across North Vietnam as clearing weather made intensified raids possible. U.S. pilots had been flying fewer than 300 strikes a day during the past three weeks.

The major targets Wednesday were a 600-foot tunnel through which the northeast rail line passes 20 miles south of the Chinese border, and vehicle maintenance and storage depots four miles from the center of Hanoi. It was the second successive day that U.S. jets attacked the rail line close to the border.

In one of the most spectacular strikes since the resumption of the bombing April 6, fewer than 10 Air Force F4 Phantoms dropped 2,000- and 3,000-pound laser-guided bombs into the southern end of the Lung Truong railroad tunnel. The Air Force said reconnaissance photos confirmed that the strike collapsed the southern end of the tunnel, which passes under a 1,000-foot mountain.

"It took exceptional skill," said one officer. "That was a mountain of rock. In order to hit the tunnel, you had to guide the bomb at an angle into the tunnel's mouth which is 100 feet wide. One of the guided bombs flew right into the entrance of the tunnel."

Terror in Napalm Incident

TRANG BANG, Vietnam (AP) — An accidental napalm drop by South Vietnamese bombers sent scores of horror-struck women, children and government soldiers running down Highway 1 today. Some were unable to escape the flaming jellied gasoline that clung to their bodies.

The South Vietnamese bombers were trying to root out North Vietnamese troops entrenched on all four sides of Trang Bang, a district town on Highway 1, about 25 miles northwest of Saigon.

Report Meals-on-Wheels Grant

The Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp. is reported to have earmarked a $1,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity for the meals-on-wheels program here.

Mrs. Vicki McNeese, community organization program director of MVHRDC, Wednesday told the monthly meeting of Pettis County Council on Aging that Max Sutherland, MVHRDC executive director, Corder, has assured her of the $1,000 grant provided the council gets its budget approved by the State Office of Aging.

The council, which recently submitted to the state office a $13,570-a-year meals-on-wheels budget, has asked for a $2,900 Title III federal grant. In the event this grant is not approved, the council can, in the light of the $1,000 MVHRDC assurance, apply for money from the federal Program Resources for Older People (PROP). In this case, the council would need to ask for only $1,900 in PROP funds since the remaining $1,000 has been assured by MVHRDC.

The council discussed these and other budget details with Richard Kammerer, field representative from the Office of Aging, Jefferson City. He told the meeting that if the $2,900 Title III funds are not approved, the council can apply for PROP funds, which takes less red tape and less bookkeeping. Kammerer said he will inform the Rev. John H. Thornberry, council chairman of the disposition of the council's application for Title III funds.

In the light of possible changes in projected expenses and donations, the council revised its annual budget from $13,570 to $12,750.

The council adopted by-laws presented by Wilfred Lee, 2314 South Kentucky,

Electrical Burns Are Suffered By Otterville Man

A 21-year-old Otterville man suffered severe electrical burns Thursday when his hand accidentally came in contact with a 7,200 volt power line about two miles north of Bothwell Lodge on Old Highway 65.

The man, identified as Jack Pate, was still undergoing intensive emergency treatment at Bothwell Hospital at 1 p.m., about an hour after the accident. His condition could not be determined but he was admitted.

According to reports, Pate is employed by the L.P. & H. Construction Co., Tipton, which is in the process of moving old utility poles in the area.

It was reported that another construction worker who was at work higher than Pate, heard a crackling noise, looked down and saw Pate's hand on the power line.

The second construction worker, who was not identified, wore insulated gloves and managed to get Pate's hand loose from the power line. It was reported Pate's safety harness kept him from falling off the utility pole, one source said.

Figuring It Out

Richard Kammerer, center, field representative from the Office of Aging, Jefferson City, attended the monthly meeting of Pettis County Council on Aging Wednesday at the Federal Building. The council has asked for federal funds to support the proposed meal-on-wheels program here. The council submitted its budget proposal to Kammerer. Flanking him are C. Kent Charles, left, district manager of the Social Security Administration, and the Rev. John H. Thornberry, who was re-elected council chairman for another year.

Inspection Scheme Takes Another Blow

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's state meat inspection program took another blow today when the city of St. Louis made it official that it will no longer do its own meat inspection. The city quits June 30.

St. Louis, in a unique arrangement with the state inspection program, has been picking up half the tab for a $120,000 program inspecting 59 plants in metropolitan St. Louis. The other $60,000 theoretically came from the state, but state officials said it actually was paid by the federal government.

According to Dr. Harold Treese, head of the state meat inspection program, this means the state will have to take over the St. Louis program. He said there is no alternative except to turn the whole state program over to the federal government.

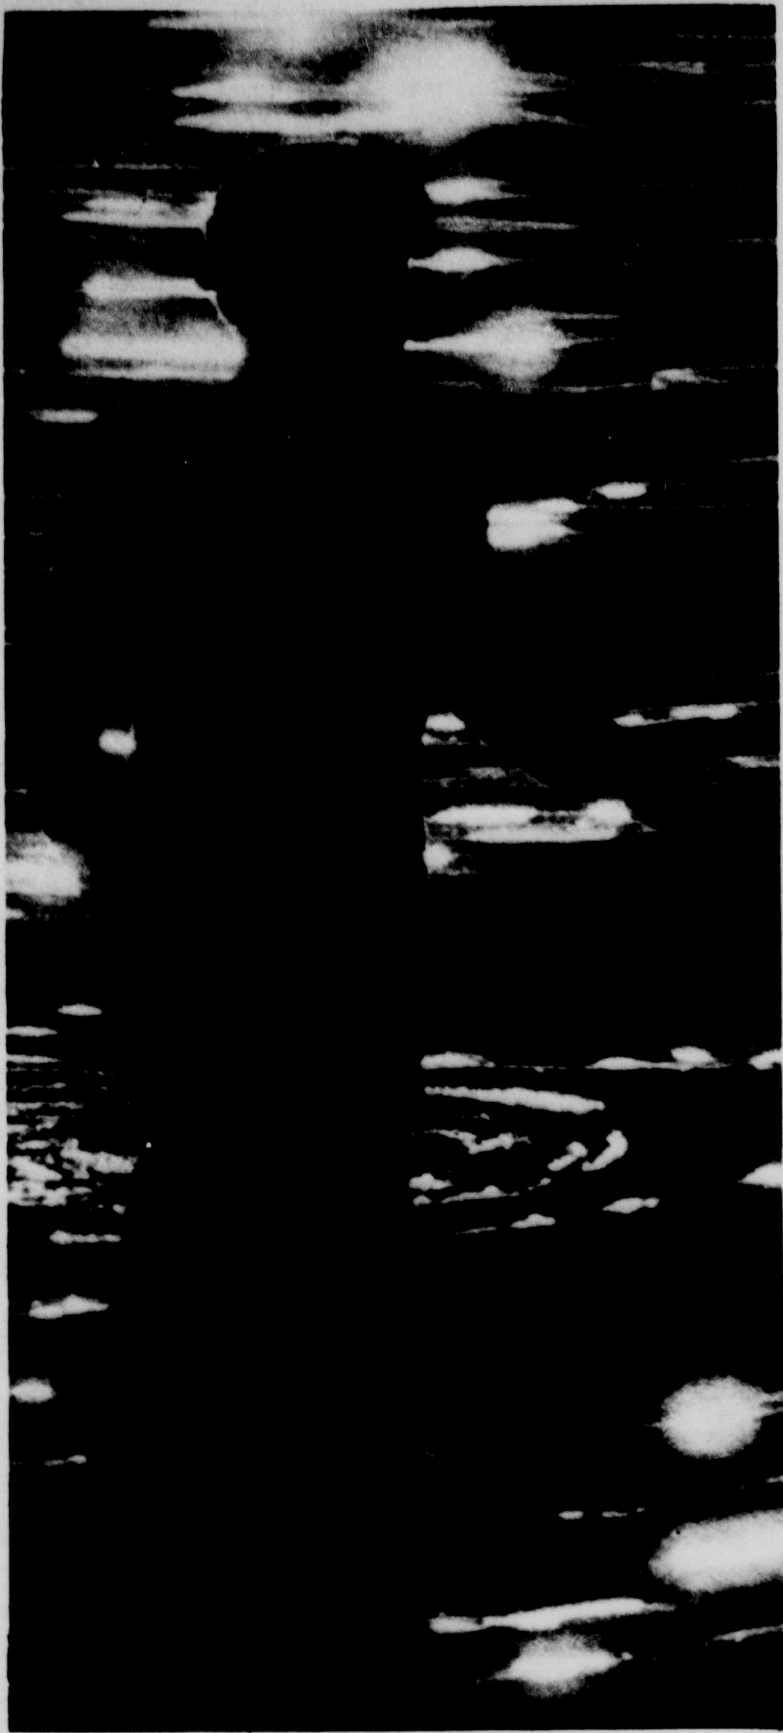

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes recommended Missouri do just that in his budget recommendations for 1972-73. The legislature—after much controversy, subpoena of federal reports, and fanfare—appropriated $530,000 of a requested $585,000 for the state's half of an inspection program. The federal government had been paying the other half.

Hearnes has not signed the appropriations bills passed this session and could veto the state program which would in effect turn the inspection of meat over to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

St. Louis city officials refused to appropriate money to continue their program and Department of Agriculture officials contend that will throw the state inspection program $60,000 in the red.

Treese said the 10 inspectors working for the city will have to be replaced by 10 state people. He said Jack Weber, St. Louis city budget director, told him two of the city's inspectors are retiring and the other eight are going into other city jobs, so he cannot use these men.

Trains Run By Amtrak Are Low on Promptness

Compared to national averages, passengers arriving and departing in Sedalia via Amtrak stand a much greater chance of being late. The Democrat-Capital has learned.

A study of departure times in Sedalia of Amtrak's two daily trains, over a 30-day period, reveals that service has not nearly approached the 85 per cent "on time" record, recently claimed by Amtrak nationally for the first three months of this year.

William Efling, Smuthton, MoPac-Amtrak ticket agent at the Sedalia depot, said he felt the eastbound train, originating its run in Kansas City, did meet the average of being on schedule at least 85 per cent of the time, but added the westbound trains, originating in New York, fell far short of that average. He estimated their promptness at only 50 per cent.

A check of one month's departure times, compared to scheduled departure times, revealed a considerably poorer average for local service, however. In the period June 5 to May 6 the westbound train was on time or within the five-minute grace period allowed by Amtrak only three of 24 days, for a 12.5 per cent rating.

The eastbound train in the same 30-day period was also on time only three days.

Efling said the trains had been especially hampered by delays and accidents the past few weeks, including the recent derailment of an engine in the M-K-T yards here and the accident that killed a 27-year-old Sedalia man in a tractor accident in Ottumwa, May 23. The westbound passenger train was two hours and 27 minutes late that evening.

Even so, Efling said the regularity of the passenger train service is "better than before the start of the Amtrak system."

The westbound train has exceeded scheduled departure times by two hours or more on five occasions in the past month with the latest, three hours and 48 minutes, on May 26. The morning eastbound train, while late most of the time, has fared better, never being more than 49 minutes behind schedule.

Louis Harris Survey

Believe Primaries 'Confusing'

By LOUIS HARRIS

A majority of 56 per cent of American voters believe that this year's Democratic Presidential primaries have been "more confusing than clarifying," and, by 54-27 per cent, would substitute a single national primary for the present system of state primaries.

However, a suggestion by Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic majority leader of the U.S. Senate, that a national primary be held, but with a convention to follow which would finally determine the nominee, is opposed by voters of all persuasions.

The public favors the primary method for selection of Presidential candidates over the convention system. But there is considerable criticism of the long string of primaries which have been held in individual states in 1972. The dominant complaints by the voters are that "there have been too many candidates to choose from," and that the "real issues in the election have not been discussed honestly by the men running."

Despite efforts by Democrats in 1972 to broaden the spectrum of those chosen to be delegates from each state, most voters are skeptical, by 44-36 per cent, that the delegates to the Democratic convention will be "representative of the people." On the other hand, people tend to believe by 51-34 per cent that the results in the state primaries have been representative of the thinking of the voters in each state.

The main advantages of primaries as seen by the voters generally are these:

✓ A sizable 78-13 per cent of the public feels that "primaries are good because they get people to think about just who is the best man for President."

✓ By 73-17 per cent, it also feels that "primaries are good because they make the men who want the nomination stand up and discuss the issues."

✓ One important appeal of primaries is found in the 65-22 per cent who agree with the statement: "Primaries are good because they give the voters, rather than the politicians, a choice in determining who will be nominated."

✓ There is less conviction in the argument that "primaries are good because they show which candidate has the ability to win elections." This proposition is supported by a 51-35 per cent margin, but scores below the other reasons for backing a primary system tested.

On the negative side, these main criticisms are leveled at the primary system:

✓ By 71-19 per cent, voters are worried that "primaries are bad because a candidate with a lot of money has too much advantage."

✓ By 50-36 per cent, half the voters criticize the state primary system, "because only a small minority of the party's voters determine the choice for all the rest."

✓ Finally, by 49-35 per cent, a plurality also believe "primaries are bad because often the best candidate doesn't go into them."

The net of this year's uneven primary results in the Democratic party is reflected in this question asked of 1,385 voters in mid-May: "Do you feel the Democratic primaries for President this year have helped more to clarify or to make more confusing who the Democrats should nominate at their convention?"

Primaries: Confusing or Clarifying?

| | Total Voters | Democrats | Independents |
|-----------------|--------------|-----------|--------------|
| | % | % | % |
| More clarifying | 23 | 23 | 26 |
| More confusing | 56 | 54 | 58 |
| Not sure | 21 | 23 | 16 |

Part of the confusion is that different states produced different winners. A majority of the voters feel that one national primary for each party would go a long way toward producing a decisive result. The cross section of the country's electorate was asked: "Would you favor or oppose substituting a national primary for both parties instead of the present system of letting each state decide whether or not to hold a primary for President?"

National Primary vs. State Primaries

| | Total Voters | Dem. | Inds. | Reps. |
|-------------------------|--------------|------|-------|-------|
| | % | % | % | % |
| Favor national primary | 54 | 52 | 58 | 54 |
| Oppose national primary | 27 | 28 | 26 | 28 |
| Not sure | 19 | 20 | 16 | 18 |

The opposition to the Mansfield proposal for combining a national primary with a national convention is widespread: "Would you favor or oppose a system under which each party named its nominee for President in a national primary, but the final choice was left up to each party's national convention, to be held after the primary?"

Final Choice at Party Convention

| | Total Voters | Dem. | Inds. | Reps. |
|----------|--------------|------|-------|-------|
| | % | % | % | % |
| Favor | 28 | 29 | 30 | 26 |
| Oppose | 44 | 41 | 46 | 48 |
| Not sure | 28 | 30 | 24 | 26 |

The major distrust is with the convention system; the most confidence is with a direct national primary. However, the drumbeat of 27 state primaries this year apparently has been more than most voters can absorb. This is despite the fact that the state primary system this year certainly whittled down one of the largest fields in modern Democratic party history to the point where only a relative few are now left for a final convention decision.

Reports May Indicate Future Economic Boom

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest quarterly report of a widely distributed analysis of consumer buying plans, now in preparation, suggests that the nation is on the verge of a spending spree that could produce an economic boom.

But another well-known consumer forecaster, Sindlinger & Co., disputes the findings, claiming that the spree, if that is what it should be termed, already has passed, and goes on to challenge the report's methodology.

The report, to be distributed later this month, is produced for the Commercial Credit Company, based on interpretations of Census Bureau data and other materials by an editorial board of economists and educators.

F. Thomas Juster, vice president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, states that consumers have sharply reduced their hesitancy and caution.

While some elements of hesitancy still can be observed, he states, the demand for single-family housing appears to be at its strongest in years and should lead to further spending for furniture and appliances.

Evidence of the growing confidence, says Juster, is indicated by sharp rises not only in mortgage credit but in the rate of installment purchases. "People are going into hock," he said in an interview.

Sindlinger, however, claims that the spree is now over. "What both the Census Bureau and the Survey Research Center are measuring is what already has taken place, not what is going to happen," he said.

Both surveys utilize extensive face-to-face interviews, the results of which are processed and published weeks later. Sindlinger interviews each week by telephone and reports his findings immediately.

As he sees it, there is only historic value in reporting what was on the minds of consumers at a given time. What is important, he claims, is to seek out their expectations for months ahead and then to make forecasts based on those expectations.

Sindlinger maintains that consumers forecast a rise in spending as early as last October when, according to his "Forecast Confidence Index," a sharp rise in consumer spending would begin in March and April.

Now he forecasts that the level of spending will remain rather firm until just before the elections, "when it will begin leveling off."

Still, it is rare for forecasters, who are always wary of long verbal limbs, to use words such as "spree" and "boom" regardless of how qualified.

The number of hunting licenses sold in the United States climbed to a record high in 1971.

Park Board

Appointments By Council

(Democrat-Capital Service)

VERSAILLES — The City Council here met Tuesday evening and appointed three persons to three-year terms each on the city park board.

Reappointed to another term was Dave White, while Mrs. Chuck Miller and Mrs. Kathy Coffman were named to their first term on the board.

Planned action concerning the Westside Manor subdivision was tabled until street work in the area is completed.

It was also learned that the Versailles municipal band has not been renewed for the first time in 25 years. The city could still have the band should enough interest demand the renewal, the council was told.

Lincoln and Smithton reported that their meetings were mostly routine with the reading of minutes, financial statements, and the payment of bills constituting the majority of the meetings.

Bunceton's report was not available.

DEATH NOTICES

Joyce K. Niederwimmer

TIPTON — Miss Joyce K. Niederwimmer, 20, Jefferson City, died Wednesday at 12:30 while working at her job as a secretary for the Missouri State Department of Education.

She was born in Jefferson City, March 11, 1952, daughter of Harold and the late Charlotte Dearing Niederwimmer.

A 1970 graduate of Tipton high school, she had worked for the department of education for two years. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Jefferson City.

Surviving are her father, Harold Niederwimmer, and her step-mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Dick Niederwimmer, both of Buncheon; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Margaret M. Niederwimmer, Buncheon; and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Leona Dearing, Tipton.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Conn Funeral Chapel here with the Rev. J. Nelson Duke of the First Baptist Church, Jefferson City, officiating.

Mrs. Stanley Palmer will be at the organ. Pallbearers will be James Etter, Richard Becker, Harry Schreiber, August Heineman, Robert Prouty and William Keith.

Burial will be at the Tipton Masonic Cemetery.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday and until time for the services Friday.

Estimate $550
Damage In Fires

Sedalia firemen were summoned to the Pettis County courthouse at 10:20 a.m. Wednesday to extinguish a blaze in a storage room on the first floor near the east entrance.

The fire was confined to the room and no persons were evacuated, although the smoke spread throughout the building. Firemen put the fire out with two hand pump buckets. They said the cause apparently was a cigarette. Damage was estimated at $200.

In another call, firemen were summoned to the residence of Robert Hamland, 413 East 25th, at 10:02 p.m. Tuesday to extinguish a fire in the kitchen that started when a burner on the stove ignited curtains.

Firemen extinguished the blaze with a booster line. Damage to the building was estimated at $200, and $150 damage to contents.

Firemen were summoned to the 500 block of East Walnut at 10:21 p.m. Wednesday to extinguish a trash fire in a dump truck owned by Melvin Heaper, 501 East Walnut.

Firemen said the truck sustained only slight damage. The fire was extinguished with a booster line.

Youth Suffers
Minor Abrasions

A 12-year-old Sedalia youth suffered abrasions to his arms, legs and face when he was struck by a pickup truck on West Main near Park at 5:10 p.m. Wednesday.

James Donald Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Garner, 821 West Henry, was struck in the north lane of Main by a westbound 1968 Chevrolet pickup operated by Kenneth D. Heimsoth, 21, 3601 South Grand.

Witnesses told police the boy was attempting to run across the street and Heimsoth apparently did not see him until it was too late to stop.

Garner was taken to Bothwell Hospital where he was treated and released.

City Water Supply Is Near Normal

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON — Almost totally out of water for nearly three hours Tuesday, the city had restored about three-fourths of its water supply by early Thursday.

When the second and last of the city's water pumps failed to function Tuesday afternoon, City Marshal Gordon Williams and Dick Conn, a funeral director, used emergency vehicles to inform residents of the situation and by 8:30 p.m. most of them had been told to use water only for cooking purposes.

Mayor Henry Bass said Wednesday night "we're getting in good shape again" when water pressure had been returned to 45 psi. Normal pressure for the city's water system is 65 psi. The return to near-normal came around 6 p.m. Wednesday after crews from Layne-Western Co. Inc., Kansas City, installed a motor-pump system.

Wednesday both city pumps had been pulled from the wells and the reason for their malfunctions discovered. Both units had burned out bearings in their two 20-horse motors.

The Kansas City firm offered the use of its own pump until a new motor, ordered and due in Kansas City from an Indiana manufacturer arrived late Thursday morning.

Bass told The Democrat-Capital, "With the cooperation of the townspeople, we all had some water, if you had the patience to wait for it to come out of the pipes," under the low pressure conditions.

chairman of by-laws committee. As per the by-laws, the organization's name was changed from the Sedalia Council on Aging to Pettis County Council on Aging. Membership in the council is open to any individual and organization interested in the welfare of the elderly in Pettis County.

The council re-elected the present slate of officers — Mr. Thornberry, chairman; Bill Rader, vice-chairman; and Mrs. Howard Pilant, secretary.

The council decided that the meals program will be sponsored by the Pettis County chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). Among those who attended the meeting was Ed Schultz, AARP local chapter president.

Mr. Thornberry told The Democrat-Capital that response from area churches and civic groups to the council's appeal for funds "has been encouraging."

Living Son
Startling
Discovery

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "Dearest mother, ... — am sorry but I don't even know what you look like," the letter read.

And Vera List, thinking her only child was dead for 26 years, suddenly discovered she was both a mother and grandmother.

Mrs. List was separated from her son, Manfred, in 1945 when she was imprisoned by Russians during an invasion of Germany. The boy was one year old.

Told by the Russians that her son had died during her imprisonment, Mrs. List — then Vera Berth — finally emigrated to the United States in 1955. She later married Air Force Sgt. Everett List in Ohio and the couple moved to Orlando.

The woman said she never told her husband about the son. She was unmarried when the child was born.

"I guess you're surprised to hear from me," read the letter, which was written in German. "I am your son Manfred, born Aug. 23rd, 1944.

"After the bad times I went to live with foster parents. They were very good to me but now I have the inner longing to know my real mother."

The son wrote that he was now married and a father. He said his foster parents had given him his mother's name but had no other information about her. He said he spent eight years communicating with various agencies and officials in the United States before immigration authorities finally located her.

Mrs. List said she could not hold back the tears as she handed her husband the letter.

"Well, what in the world are you crying about," he asked. "This is great news. I've just become a father and a grandfather in one day."

Mrs. List said she and her husband have taken extra jobs to raise the $1,000 fare for her son, his wife and their child to fly to Orlando.

Casualties
Are Revealed

SAIGON (AP) — Eleven Americans were killed in action last week, 20 were wounded, and 2 died of nonhostile causes, the U.S. Command announced today.

The U.S. figures reflected little change from preceding weeks. This was in contrast to soaring South Vietnamese casualties in the ground war, where they have taken over the bulk of the fighting.

An unofficial tabulation indicated that 95 Americans have been killed in air and ground action and 266 have been wounded since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced the highest government death toll in six weeks—912 troops killed in action—plus 3,281 wounded and 274 missing.

This raised South Vietnamese casualties since the offensive began to 7,345 killed and 23,752 wounded.

The Saigon command claimed 4,314 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week, raising to 39,547 the total number of enemy soldiers killed since March 30.

Auto Damaged

David Alexander, Route 2, reported to police Wednesday night that the paint on the hood and fenders of his 1965 Volkswagen was scratched sometime between 8:30 and 10 p.m. Tuesday, while it was parked near the concession stand at Hubbard Park. Alexander estimated the damage at $30.

Car Wash Office
Hit By Gunfire

Dale Arms, owner of the Broadway Car Wash, 310 West Broadway, reported to police Wednesday a 38 caliber bullet was fired into the office of his car wash Tuesday night. Arms said the bullet penetrated a metal wall and went through a drawer in a wooden desk inside the office.

Arms' car wash, Broadway and Kentucky, was near the scene of the police chase Tuesday night in which off-duty Sedalia policeman Gary Pitts shot his 38 caliber revolver at the car of George Brown, 28, Kansas City, who was fleeing from police at the time of the incident.

Pitts reportedly shot out two or three tires on Brown's car before police captured Brown a short time later near Broadway and Limit. Brown was convicted on five charges Wednesday morning and is in the Pettis County jail.

Police Chief Bill Miller said Thursday that Pitts fired five shots at the tires of Brown's car.

Preliminary Hearing
Date Set For Reis

Joseph A. Reis, 23, Route 3, was arraigned in Pettis County Magistrate Court Wednesday on a charge of receiving stolen property valued over $50. Judge Frank Armstrong set June 15 as the preliminary hearing date. Bond was set at $2,000.

Reis was bound over to Circuit Court in May on a similar charge.

On the first charge, Reis was arrested by the Pettis County Sheriff's Department in connection with a May 16 incident in which he allegedly received items stolen from the Gordon Childers farm, Route 3.

On the second count, Reis is charged with having had in his possession at the time of his arrest about $270 worth of trading stamps, which were allegedly taken from a Derby Service station in Warrensburg May 20.

Seaplanes Fly High Without Power

By GEORGE ROSS
Oakland Tribune Sports Editor
Written for Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — America, held back by decades of prosperity, is catching up in the international sport of soaring—don't call it gliding—is flying high and hand-some.

The ranks of America's soaring pilots have doubled and redoubled in just the past 10 years, to an estimated 25,000.

Even more spectacular has been the evolution of the long-winged and lightweight birds they fly, a change from the duck-like gliders of the post-World War II era to the eagle-like sailplanes of today.

The most exotic of these are the end product of a "fiberglass revolution" by aeronautical designers, beautiful craft with tapering wingspreads of 60 feet and more, yet weighing only from 400 to 800 pounds.

Flying without an ounce of power except that found in the energies of the moving sky, they are capable of soaring flight to make an eagle envious.

Through the decade dubbed "The Soaring Sixties" every soaring record in the books was wiped out at least once.

For example, Paul Bikle, retired director of the NASA Flight Test Center in California's Mojave Desert, piloted a tiny U.S.-built Schweizer to a world record altitude of 46,267 feet.

Ben Greene of Elizabethtown, N.C., and Wally Scott of Odessa, Tex., flying German-built fiberglass sister ships, chased each other all the way from Odessa to Columbus, Neb., two years ago for a jointly held world distance record of 716.95 miles.

Bikle is non-flying captain of a four-man U.S. team entered in the International Soaring Championships in Yugoslavia in July. Greene is one of his pilots and Scott is a backup alternate.

Hundreds of America's best soaring pilots compete annually in 11 regional championships and the U.S. championships, scheduled this year in Reno, Nev., July 18-27.

The Soaring Society of America has 13,000 members who can earn international badges which the SSA awards for Federation Internationale Aerona-tique, the world governing body of the sport.

Holy Land Soil Filled With Historical Objects

JERUSALEM (AP) — Sink a shovel almost anywhere in the soil of the Holy Land and chances are the digger will come up with some link to the history of man.

Bits of pottery, coins, inscribed stones all fit into a vast puzzle slowly being pieced together by hundreds of archaeologists, both amateur and professional, who mine this ancient land.

"More than half our discoveries are made purely by accident," said Dr. Abraham Biran, archaeologist and director of Israel's Department of Antiquities and Museums.

Biran, blue-gray eyes sparkling, told how this year an Arab work gang laying water pipe near Nablus in occupied West Jordan discovered a "magnificent Roman mausoleum."

"It was off the main road, a natural spot for someone to break in. And we don't have the funds or the manpower to excavate and preserve even a part of the accidental finds that are made," Biran said.

"Sometimes I feel I'd like to drive a couple of truckloads of sand out to these sites and just cover them up. That way they'd be safe until we could find the time and the money to dig them up properly."

In Nablus, Biran persuaded the municipality to move its water pipe a few feet to the west. A fence was erected and guards were posted.

Two more accidental finds were made in the occupied Arab Gaza Strip recently. Land reclamation projects near Gaza City and Deir el Balah unearthed a 7th century B.C. ossuary (a stone cask in which bones were buried).

The tel, or mound, some nine feet high, covering the ancient town of Oum Amar near the seacoast, already has yielded ceramics from the late Roman and Byzantine periods.

At Deir el Balah, an Arab working in an orange grove found the 3,100-year-old ossuary containing the remains of two men and a wealth of bronze implements.

Teams from the archeological institutes of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem have since found a set of bronze sacrificial instruments and a Canaanite period jar at the site.

Biran, 63, also pointed to finds made near Eilat on the Gulf of Aqaba, indicating that ancient Egyptians carried the search for copper and gold to the shores of the Dead Sea.

"In one case, a schoolgirl found an inscription and engraving during an outing with her class in the mountains near Eilat," Biran said.

The inscriptions seemed to mark way stations and water sources on some ancient path between Egypt and Israel which apparently ended at Egyptian style copper and gold mines found in 1969 south of the Dead Sea, the Archeology Journal reported.

Biran estimated nearly $1 million would be spent in archaeological research in Israel during the 1972 season, "but much of that is travel costs which are being picked up by the participants."

The true Gamay, or Gamay Beaujolais, is planted to a small extent in California, especially in Santa Clara, San Benito, Contra Costa and Napa Counties, and yields a remarkable wine, often superior to any Pinot Noir from the same vineyard. Usually this is sold as Gamay du Beaujolais, and it should by no means be confused with the ordinary California wine called simply "Gamay," made from a much inferior and far more productive grape which is possibly not a Gamay at all.

Children's Puppet Show Begins

Puppet theater is coming to town. Boonslick Regional Library presents the Boonslickers Puppet Theater under the direction of Mrs. Wilma Hurley, children's librarian, who will present several performances for the children of Benton, Cooper and Pettis Counties in June, July and August. The performances are a part of the children's summer reading program "It's a Great Big Fun Thing."

Three plays, "Little Red Riding Hood," "Hansel and Gretel" and "Snow White," are to be presented in the community parks. There will be available a selection of children's books for circulation to members of the Summer Reading Club in attendance.

Children of all ages are invited to enjoy the play and join the club.

Complete schedules are available from the branch libraries in Sedalia, Boonville, and Warsaw. The first production, "Little Red Riding Hood" will be presented on the following schedule.

June 12: Otterville, 10 a.m.; Prairie Home, 1 p.m.

June 14: Lincoln, 10 a.m.; Green Ridge, 1 p.m.

June 19: Pilot Grove, 10 a.m.; Boonville, 2 p.m. (at the library).

June 22: Cole Camp, 10 a.m.; Warsaw, 1 p.m.

June 23: Houstonia, 1 p.m.; LaMonte, 3 p.m.

Student Speaks At Convocation

A Sedalia student, Tracy Strombom, was one of the principle speakers at the senior-faculty-alumni convocation banquet held Friday at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield.

Strombom, one of six seniors graduating magna cum laude, spoke on "Who Knows?" one of the basic questions facing graduating seniors.

"Who has any idea where we will be 10 years from now — or how we will get there? I certainly don't. Of all the things college teaches us, probably the most important is our education in handling people. From our dealings with professors, administrators, secretaries, and security guards, we gain tremendous experience that will help us in life," he said.

"One of the best courses I ever had was one in which we were not graded according to the answers we could produce, but what sort of questions we could ask. Anyone can come up with the answers, but questions — there's the important thing," Strombom concluded.

Strombom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Strombom, 2405 Golf Drive, received his Bachelor of Arts degree at commencement ceremonies held Saturday at SMS. The debate and history major was also awarded a graduate assistantship and will be working with the debate team this fall.

He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha of Delta Sigma Rho, an honorary debate fraternity.

Nancy Rouchka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rouchka, 1100 State Fair Blvd., graduated from St. Mary's Hospital School of Nursing on Saturday at Immaculate Conception Cathedral in Kansas City. Nancy will be employed at Bothwell Hospital.

Student Reports

Glenn Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Lane, 1015 South Massachusetts, and a junior at Sterling College, Sterling, Kan., was named to the Dean's List for the second semester.

Robert C. Hickman, Eldon, and Donna Sue Frieling, Buncheon, graduated recently from Northeast Missouri State College, Kirksville.

Hickman received his bachelor's degree in music education and graduated with cum laude honors. Miss Frieling received her bachelor of science degree in sociology and law enforcement and correction.

Donald Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Anderson, Route 1, was awarded an eagle certificate, taps certificate, and non-commissioned officers warrant, at the 83rd annual commencement ceremonies held Sunday at Missouri Military Academy in Mexico.

Colly Durley and Rosemary Mumbower, of Sedalia, were named to the spring Dean's List at Northwest Missouri State College, Maryville.

Daniel Lee McCurdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McCurdy, Hughesville, received his Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration at commencement exercises held Saturday at Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa.

4-H News

The Beaman Arator 4-H Club met Monday and 22 members were present. Club members discussed the 4-H horse show that will be held July 2 and what types of booths to have at the Smithton Fair July 7-8. It was decided to have a jail and a sponge throw booth.

New club members are Lisa Smith and Ray Cusick.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. July 3 at the Beaman 4-H hall.

Study Group Outlines Work Plans

The Pettis County University Extension Center, Federal Building, has five work study students assigned to its office this summer. They are Brent Hampt, Florence; Kathy Payne, Smithton; Beverly Phillips, 2425 West First; Linda Keele, 2003 South Warren. All five students are enrolled in the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Work outlined for the students includes: Helping with the summer enrichment and recreation program at the Sedalia Housing Authority's public housing site on west Saline and at Housel Park. Students will learn organized games, nutrition, crafts, creative drawing, and bicycle safety and care.

Also the assigned students will work with the farm management records summary, 4-H camps, achievement days, livestock show, environmental programs and office work at the Extension Center.

Summer School Begins Monday

Summer school classes for Sedalia students will begin Monday and run through July 21. School will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday at the following schools.

They are Whittier, Jefferson, Washington, and Hubbard for students in the second through sixth grade, and at Smith-Cotton High School for students in the seventh and eighth grade.

Subjects that will be taught are language arts, mathematics, reading and social studies. Crafts and recreation will also be conducted in the elementary schools and a free snack will also be given daily in the elementary schools.

The instruction is free of charge to students and the summer school instructional program is federally funded.

May Use Land For U.S. Park

A letter written to President Nixon by a rural Sedalia woman might result in the land surrounding historic Bothwell Lodge being used as a park to celebrate the nation's bicentennial in 1976, it was revealed at a meeting of the Bothwell Community Betterment Club Tuesday.

Mrs. Edward Rehmer, Route 4, at whose home the meeting was held, told the group of a letter she wrote to President Nixon about five weeks ago. She said the letter informed the President of the recent dilemma facing the landmark concerning its future use, and included articles about the lodge by Hazel Lang, a retired Democrat-Capitol reporter.

Mrs. Rehmer said she had been informed through a reply from the National Park Service that the President's office had forwarded her information to that agency, and that they were presently deciding if the acreage might be suitable for a public park for use during the nation's bicentennial ceremony.

According to Mrs. Rehmer, the National Park Service is looking for 50 to 100-acre sites to establish bicentennial parks in every state in the U.S. She said she was not aware of what the National Park Service had in mind for the bicentennial sites, but presumably an area which reflected the state's history would be considered appropriate.

The National Park Service

reply indicated that the state, probably through the State Park Board, would be notified in four months of a decision on the possibility of the Bothwell Lodge site.

Mrs. Rehmer said the letter indicated the bicentennial site would be on state-owned land, which would be returned to use by the state after the celebration.

The state has a chance to acquire the acreage under provisions of the will of John H. Bothwell, builder of the unique, rambling structure just off north Highway 65. Under the will, the state could gain possession of the lodge during a five year period after the number of surviving trustees to his estate became less than five. More than three years have passed since that provision became effective, but the state has failed to act to acquire the land.

In other business, the Bothwell Community Betterment Club Attitude Survey was distributed to members to be completed by their families.

Two club members, Jimmie Rose and Bill Clay reported on a recent interview concerning Bothwell Lodge over radio station KFRU, Columbia.

Plans were also announced for a community picnic July 4.

Mrs. Junior Greer, president, presided.

A brief devotion was given by Mrs. Charles Wise.

McNamara Stressing Economics

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Championing the cause of the underdeveloped countries, World Bank President Robert S. McNamara told the U.N. Conference on the Human Environment Thursday that the war on pollution should not be allowed to slow the economic growth of the poorer nations.

The World Bank, its American president said, has found so far that environmental hazards can be reduced either at no cost to the development projects it finances or at a cost so moderate that the borrowers accept the safeguards.

He called for more research into the impact of development on the environment to provide a better understanding of the problem and to amend certain "alarmist" views about continued growth.

McNamara also said the wealthy nations can afford to combine rising environmental protection at home with increased development assistance to the poor countries.

McNamara said it is not surprising that those who call for a slowdown or halt of economic growth to save the environment are those who already amply provided with the advantages which that very growth had made possible.

He conceded that rapid industrial expansion for a century contributed to a "monstrous assault on the quality of life," and growth on the pattern of the past is an undeniable threat to the environment and health of man. But he said the task is to find a pattern that will provide for economic growth without destroying the environment.

Organization Is Explained At Meeting

The Rev. LeRoy Hayes, president of Beacon in the Night, spoke about his organization's origin and growth at the regular meeting of the Lions Club Wednesday at Bothwell Hotel.

He said Sedalia has a drug problem and outlined Beacon in the Night's method of helping drug abusers.

Mr. Hayes also listed the aims and purposes of the organization and noted a rehabilitation center and living quarters for his family are maintained at 315 East Boonville.

The program was introduced by Abe Silverman.

John Kenney, president, presided.

Big Day Friday

Herrman Lumber Co. which recently moved from 300 East Main to 210 Thompson Road, north of Biederman's Furniture Co., will have a grand opening from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday. The store, which has been in operation in Sedalia for about 10 years, is now located on a five-acre tract of land. The new store has three times the floor space of the old one, according to store manager Bob Scott. The bottom-photo shows the new store's streamlined information desk where Scott, left, and Hall Pledge, bookkeeper, discuss plans for the grand opening.

Life-Saving Course Set At Hubbard

A course in senior life saving will be offered at Hubbard Park pool beginning Monday and running through June 23, the local Red Cross office has announced.

The course will be conducted five nights a week from 5 to 7 p.m. The instructor will be John Schondelmeyer. Those who complete the course will be awarded the Red Cross senior life saving certificate.

Persons 15 years of age and over who are interested in the course may enroll by contacting the Pettis County Red Cross office, 112 West Fourth.

Also beginning Monday at the Liberty Park pool will be the first session of regular Red Cross swimming classes. A second two-week session will begin July 10.

BUSINESS NEWS

Larry Dirck, 2423 West First St., and Norval Dirck, Knob Noster, announced Wednesday a two-day open house would be held June 17-18 for the new Mobile Home Ranch on west Highway 50, directly across from the El Rancho Motel.

Books Are Received By Library

Five fiction, two biography and three non-fiction books were received by the Boonslick Regional Library in May.

The fiction titles were "Captains and the Kings" by Caldwell, "The Assassins," Kazan, "A Georgian Love Story," Raymond, "The Word," Wallace, and "The Blue Knight," by Wambaugh.

Biographical works included "Lieutenant Calley: His Own Story," by Calley, and "Every Other Inch a Lady," Lillie.

Non-fiction books were "The Jesus Generation," Graham, "Nobody Said You Had to Eat Off the Floor," Eisen, and "The Foxfire Book," Wigginton.

Hairnet Spending Won't Be Wasted

BONN (AP) — West German soldiers aren't allowed to wear their hair long any longer, but the $110,000 the army spent for hairnets won't be wasted, government spokesman Wilhelm Berkhan told the lower house of parliament.

The nets, worn to keep long locks out of the guns and machinery, will be used as camouflage covering for the soldiers' steel helmets, he said Wednesday.

Berkhan defended Defense Minister Helmut Schmidt's order allowing military personnel to wear hair as long as they liked. He said it was issued at the height of the long-hair fad and prevented "great psychological damage."

"We didn't want to draw the anger of beat bands by shearing the drummer's hair during his service period," he commented.

The fad has waned, and the armed forces returned to GI length last month.

Relax, No Ticket

SANDY, Utah (AP) — Stanford McDonald, 5, rode his bicycle in front of a car and suffered minor injuries.

He looked up tearfully from a stretcher taking him to a hospital and asked his parents: "Do you think they'll give me a ticket?"

Police assured him they wouldn't.

Beatrice Company Notes Anniversary

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP) — Beatrice Foods Co., one of the nation's huge industrial complexes, returned to the city of its origin Wednesday for its 75th annual meeting.

A special train from Lincoln where many visitors gathered transported about 300 persons to the meeting, held in the city auditorium. Other visitors along with townspeople swelled the attendance at the meeting to more than 1,200, a little under the 1,600 estimated in advance, but still the company's largest.

Ned Postels, 2605 Plaza, manager of Beatrice Foods Co., 111 West Fifth, Sedalia, Mo., attended the meeting with his wife.

Beatrice Foods, which was founded by George Haskell of Beatrice in 1894, and incorporated three years later in conjunction with acquisition of a creamery, now markets 8,000 products, more than 70 per cent in food lines, and has 60,000 employees five times the population of Beatrice.

Of the company's 31,330,729 shares of stock outstanding, 26,438,108 were represented at Wednesday's meeting either in person or by proxy.

William G. Karnes, chairman had chief executive officer, reported record sales of $2.4 billion and earnings of $78 million during the fiscal year ended Feb. 29. In the 20 years Karnes has headed the company, he said, sales have increased tenfold and earnings 20-fold.

At a news conference following the meeting Don L. Grant, president, said sales for the first two months of the fiscal year were up 15 per cent and net earnings up 11 per cent.

Lee Schlytter, Chicago, a Beatrice Foods employee since 1941 and vice president for corporate development since 1966, was elected a director to replace John Hazelton Sr., a former executive, who is retiring after 51 years with the company. All officers were re-elected.

Stockholders had few questions but Lewis D. Gilbert of New York who has numerous holdings, tried unsuccessfully to win approval of his cumulative voting plan for election of directors, which he contended would provide greater opportunity for small stockholders. Karnes opposed the plan, saying it was the feeling of the board that directors would not represent any segment of the stockholders.

Following the meeting stockholders and visitors went to the Gage County Fairgrounds for a barbecue.

Railroad Request Under Advisement

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Santa Fe Railway request to be allowed to close eight livestock shipping stations in central and western Kansas and one in Oklahoma has been taken under advisement by the Southwestern Freight Bureau.

Carl Kersting, a spokesman for the General Traffic Committee of the bureau, said the only person who attended the hearing Wednesday to express opposition to the closings was a Texas livestock shipper.

"About six shippers requested that the stations stay open" by letters and telegrams, he said.

"The carriers promised that they would look carefully at the testimony submitted by the shippers," Kersting said.

The Southwestern Freight Bureau is composed of railroads in the southwest portion of the U.S. The bureau establishes rates and makes decisions for member lines.

Poor Rail Service

From Amtrak Here

What is behind the deteriorating rail passenger service provided Sedalia by Amtrak?

A story elsewhere in today's paper describes the results of a 30-day check of departure times of Amtrak's National Limited from Sedalia, both east and west. They show that late departures, often exceeding two hours, are the rule rather than the exception.

The worst offender is the westbound train that originates in New York. Besides being chronically late, it has lately been plagued by a host of other problems, including filthy cars, some without water, and inoperative air conditioning.

It recently pulled into Sedalia with the air conditioning out in four of its six cars, including the dining car. It was also running an hour and a half late.

From interviews with conductors, ticket agents, Amtrak passenger service representatives and executives, this newspaper has received the strong impression that some of the blame falls on Missouri Pacific, which was a reluctant partner in Amtrak from the outset and would appear to be making less than an honest effort to provide dependable, efficient service.

The taxpayers, who are footing most of Amtrak's bills, deserve better. While they are probably willing to spend the money necessary to get rail passenger transportation back on its feet after years of neglect and decay, they have a right to expect continued improvement in service, rather than a return to the old days.

On Tuesday Senate-House conferees urged Congress to pass a compromise bill providing Amtrak almost $600 million more in federal grants and loan guarantees. Despite our disappointment at the current level of service, we would favor such action. But only with the assurance that things will start looking up on the National Limited.

Unfair to McGovern

Your editorial titled "McGovern's Reckless Defense Proposal" is at best poor journalistic judgment. If you would quit printing your biased opinion and explore the problem objectively, you would possibly start producing better editorials.

With a few ill chosen words you have associated and compared George McGovern (the front running Democratic candidate for presidential office) with Gus Hall (the perennial leader for the Communist party).

The most unfortunate part of this situation is that you are in a position to influence thousands of people with this type of insinuating editorial.

I would like to suggest that to millions of Americans, George McGovern represents the best opportunity for progressive change in our society. In a recent national poll he secured the highest vote on the following important attitudes:

- ✓ Puts country ahead of politics
- ✓ Has innovative solutions to problems
- ✓ Presents his ideas clearly
- ✓ Intellectual

These attitudes tell why George McGovern has done so well in the presidential primaries.

Rhodesia:

A History

Of Errors

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — It was one of the maxims of Euripides that a bad beginning makes a bad ending. The story of Rhodesia, which last month closed another melancholy chapter, offers an example of the rule in operation.

Kilpatrick

From the time Rhodesia declared her independence from Great Britain in the fall of 1965, blunder has followed in the footsteps of folly. If in the beginning the most elementary precepts of international order had been obeyed—if the United States especially had observed the rules of right conduct — today's miserable impasse could have been avoided. It never worked out that way.

The thought of Euripides prompts a further thought: Richmond Lattimore once observed that, unlike conventional melodrama, which pits right against wrong, Greek drama pits right against right. For the past seven years the notion has been carefully cultivated in the liberal press that in Rhodesia, all the right is on the side of the 5 million blacks, and all the wrong on the side of the quarter-million whites. It is not so.

The African inhabitants make the self-evident point that they were there first. Their sheer numbers give weight to their case today. They have worked the mines and tilled the fields and contributed greatly to the country's wealth. Willingly or unwillingly, the African Rhodesians have inherited English principles of political justice, among them the principle of majority rule.

The European inhabitants respond to these contentions by asserting clear title—a title as good as any in Africa today. The British pioneers of 1890 found a Stone Age society. They and their children brought the capital, the tools, the know-how, the fierce ambition that lifted the primeval darkness. Their taxes and their leadership have given the Africans of Rhodesia, relatively speaking, good schools and good medical care. Blacks are represented in Parliament, in the police, and in the civil service. As for majority rule, the Europeans assert that the principle has been thought to apply only among those capable of governing, and not among those incapable of governing.

These were among the rights in conflict when Rhodesia declared her independence in November of 1965. By all the ordinary rules, and by the plain language of the United Nations charter as well, this business was wholly the business of Great Britain. It was none of the business of anyone else. But in a series of resolutions denounced by Dean Acheson as "patently illegal," the United Nations embarked upon a course of falsehood, hypocrisy, and double-standard politics. Thus were the sanctions imposed.

It was in an effort to put an end to this folly that Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, last year worked out an agreement with Rhodesia's prime minister, Ian Smith. The agreement was not perfect. In Commons on May 23, Douglas-Home fairly described it as "a compromise settlement which by definition will not wholly satisfy anyone, but which will gain for the Africans substantial new opportunities."

These substantial new opportunities now have been sidelined. With the report of a commission headed by Lord Pearce, finding the settlement not acceptable to a majority of the Africans, the whole delicate structure collapses. Sanctions will continue; and the mockery of these sanctions will continue also.

Rhodesia is a small country, but as Daniel Webster remarked of Dartmouth College, there are those of us who love it. It is a sad reflection of man's capacity for error that so much that is good and hopeful and right should be sacrificed, in this case, to UN policies that are vindictive, unrealistic, and wrong.

Nixon Kept Notes

Of Moscow Talks

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — No transcript was kept of the face-to-face meetings between President Nixon and Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev in the Kremlin.

As an act of trust, the President didn't even bring his own interpreter into the conference room but accepted Brezhnev's linguist.

After each session, Nixon methodically transcribed his recollections of the discussion. His personal notes constitute the only U.S. record of the historic Nixon-Brezhnev talks.

From a source with access to these notes, here are some of the highlights:

On the eve of the Moscow meeting, the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks were still snagged in Helsinki over Soviet unwillingness to halt construction of missile-carrying submarines. But the President, alone with Brezhnev, leaned forward and said: "Dammit, let's settle it."

Then they hammered out the important agreement to limit nuclear weapons. At one point, Nixon jokingly suggested that Russia could substitute its mammoth SS9 missiles for submarines, since the new monster missiles resemble submarines in both size and shape.

"How do you know?" demanded Brezhnev gruffly. For Russia has tried to keep its SS9s secret from the world.

The President replied that they may as well be frank with one another about weapons, since both sides had excellent intelligence. Perhaps, he said, the Soviets might wish to mount SS9s on their submarines.

"This would sink the submarines," snorted Brezhnev.

"That is exactly what I had in mind," cracked Nixon.

The President found Brezhnev to be a hearty host but a hard negotiator. In the end, however, Nixon concluded that "the man can be trusted."

Perhaps even more important than the nuclear arms agreement, in the President's opinion, was a 12-point pact "to remove the threat of war" and "to promote reduction of tensions in the world." He felt this codified the new Soviet-American relationship and established the rules for avoiding future military confrontations.

The pact was proposed by the Russians and resisted at first by Nixon. He changed his mind, however, and decided it could be an instrument for peace. He personally drafted the 12 points between sessions in Moscow, and Brezhnev accepted most of the President's language.

Nixon drove himself relentlessly in Moscow, averaging only three to five hours of sleep the first six nights, as he followed the endless hours of bargaining with meticulous note-taking and painstaking preparations for the next session.

He was buoyed by his success and left Moscow exhausted but exhilarated. He told aides jubilantly that he felt more confident than ever of an enduring peace. The Moscow meeting, he genuinely felt, had made the world a safer place.

During a subsequent visit to a Leningrad castle, the guide showed the President some trick mirrors and a spot where the acoustics made a few hand pats sound like great applause. Nixon gleefully made funny faces at himself in the mirrors, then he announced: "I am going to applaud myself."

He patted his hands and beamed happily when the magnified applause roared back.

Footnote: Even Andrei Grechko, the dour Soviet defense minister who reportedly had opposed the Nixon visit, warmed up to the President. While Nixon was standing at attention for the Soviet honor guard, he felt a tap on his shoulder. It was Grechko, who made a good-humored crack about the marching soldiers.

Chaotic Society — President Nixon has told subordinates that he still believes in fiscal responsibility and will return to a tight budget immediately after the election. He will begin, he suggested, by cutting ex-President Lyndon Johnson's Great Society programs. Nixon has already drafted a list of 110 federal programs that he believes should be repealed or, at least, turned over to local governments. He will charge that the programs were hastily conceived and poorly administered. He also intends to warn, in effect, that the Great Society will wind up instead as a chaotic society, with the workers taxed beyond endurance.

When 'Check Day' Comes Around

WASHINGTON — One of the most intriguing parts of Sen. George McGovern's tax-reform plan is that he would give every man, woman and child in the United States $1,000 a year in cash. The money would be taxable, and the majority of Americans would have to return it. But those in a low enough tax bracket or no tax bracket could keep the money as guaranteed income.

It blows one's mind to think what would happen if everyone in this country received a check for $1,000.

It is "check" day and Mr. and Mrs. Amberson and their three children—Robert, 17, Sarah, 14 and Todd, 9—have just received their $1,000 allotments from the government with a short note:

Dear American:

Enclosed please find a $1,000 check as part of my tax program. If you don't need it, please send it back to the treasury, as we can use any surplus money you can spare.

Sincerely,
President George McGovern

"Oh boy," Robert says. "Now I can buy a new motorcycle."

"Wait a minute," Mr. Amberson says. "I want all those checks. I have to pay taxes on them, and since we're in the $20,000-a-year bracket, it all must be returned to the government."

"I'm not giving back my check," Sarah says. "It's made out to me."

"What are you going to do with $1,000, Sarah?"

"I'm going to buy record tapes with it. There are 200 Rolling Stone albums I want so badly I could die."

Little Todd shouts, "Hot dog. $1,000! Mom, how much bubble gum can you get for $1,000?"

"Too much," Mrs. Amberson replies. "You're not going to spend your $1,000 on bubble gum."

"Sean Reilly's mom lets him spend $1,000 on anything he wants to. Last year he bought his own Coke machine."

"No one," Mr. Amberson shouts, "is spending any of his money on motorcycles, tapes or bubble gum!"

"Would you believe a new washer and dryer?" Mrs. Amberson asks.

"No, not even a new washer and dryer. This is not our money. It belongs to the government," Mr. Amberson cries. "Why can't you get that through your heads?"

"Why would the government send it to us if it didn't want us to have it?" Robert demands.

"Because President McGovern believes it's easier to give $1,000 to everyone and then have them give it back. In this way you don't have a welfare mess."

"If I can't buy tapes with my $1,000," Sarah says, "I'm going to buy an airplane ticket to Japan, and you'll never hear from me again."

Little Todd says, "I think I'll buy a color television set for my room with half of it, and with the other half I'll buy Sean Reilly's baseball cards."

"The children can do what they want with their checks," Mrs. Amberson says, "but I'm not giving this one back. I earned this $1,000."

"How did you earn it?" Mr. Amberson asks.

"By working 18 hours a day, 365 days a year!"

"Please," Mr. Amberson begs, "endorse the checks and give them to me. I'll put them in the bank and on April 15 we'll send them back to the government. Otherwise, I'll wind up going to jail."

There is dead silence in the dining room. Suddenly Sean Reilly comes in waving his check. "Hey Todd, I'll buy your roller skates for $1,000."

"Sold," Todd says.

"Hurry up," Sean yells, "before my dad finds out where I am."

Islands a Home For Sika Deer

JAMES ISLANDS, Md. (AP) — Although this pair of tiny, desolate islands in Chesapeake Bay are located on Maryland's Eastern Shore, that hardly qualifies them as Far Eastern.

Yet thriving in thick, tangled bayberry undergrowth beneath spotty stands of loblolly pines is a herd of Sika deer, a migrant from the Orient that somehow have adapted to their harsh, almost aquatic, environment.

The saga of the Sika began 50 years ago when Clement Henry introduced several of the small animals to the uninhabited island.

Actually the Sika is not a deer at all, but a miniature member of the elk family. It bounces across the rocky terrain like a pogo-stick, whistles like a bird when alarmed, and trumpets loudly at night.

Amazingly, the herd has thrived and multiplied on the salt sea grass and bayberry brush of the island, which boasts only one fresh water pond.

Even the destructive visit of Hurricane Hazel in the '50s, which literally split James Island in two, had little or no effect on the herd.

Some of the deer have been trapped and stocked on nearby Assateague Island, which has been designated as a national seashore. That herd has already passed the 1,000 mark and still is growing to such an extent that limited hunting is permitted annually to keep the deer from over-eating their range.

Others have waded the shallow strait to the mainland of Dorchester County where they also flourish and now are legal game during deer season, though not too popular due to their small size. (They are about the size of a small goat.)

More recently, the Maryland Game and Fish Commission trapped some of the tiny animals and traded them to Florida for some southern wild turkeys.

Getting Passport Is Time Consuming

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — When white South Africans need a passport, they fill out an official form, submit it with $4 and await the document. Black applicants need much more money, effort and patience.

Africans must supply a deposit of $532 if they plan to visit the United States and $266 if Europe is their goal—plus the application fee.

Immigration authorities say the deposits are required in case the traveler becomes stranded and must be returned home at government expense.

Suspicious blacks believe the deposit is aimed at discouraging them from foreign travel. Some point out that even African students able to study abroad on full scholarships must fork over deposits.

The red tape doesn't stop with money, however.

Blacks have to provide eight copies of letters to support the passport application from two notables, usually a clergyman and an officeholder in their segregated communities.

Then the applicant gets a document from the Bantu Administration Department's immigration section which must be cleared at Johannesburg's Non-European Affairs Department.

"Bantu" is the official label for Africans and "Non-European" is South Africanese for anybody who isn't white.

The clearance form describes the applicant's worthiness and political leanings, if any. It also reports whether he or she "is considered a fit and proper person to visit countries where there is no racial segregation."

Next income tax and poll tax receipts must be produced. Birth certificates are OK in the case of minors.

Many applicants say that if any of the necessary papers or funds are lacking, immigration officers decline to pass it along to headquarters in Pretoria for final approval.

When opposition politicians chided the government last year about passport obstacles a spokesman spurned the criticism by saying that passports are a privilege and not a right of citizens.

American Indians taught early colonists how to make maple syrup, and today it still is produced only in the United States and Canada.

Soldiers Guard Ski Resort

TEL AVIV (AP) — When you ski in Israel you do a sort of submachine gun slalom through the Old Testament.

Israel has built the first ski resort in the Holy Land on the Biblical slopes of Mount Hermon—a 9,232-foot heap of historic rock surrounded by ceasefire lines and Arab guerrillas.

Armed soldiers stand constant guard at the top of the chairlift and the Israeli Army occasionally rumbles past the parking lot on a raid. But the guerrillas stay far away and give or take a broken leg or two, nobody has gotten hurt on the snow-grounds.

Ten thousand or more Israelis pack the slopes on a Saturday Sabbath and most of them have never seen snow before. The skiers are outnumbered by children and old ladies tobogganing down the mountain on plastic bags.

"Hardly anybody knows how to ski and nobody owns a sled, so plastic bags are the snowmobiles of Israel," says American ski teacher Jay McCrensky of Belmont, Mass.

"When they finish sliding, they fill the bags with snow to show to the folks back home in Tel Aviv or Beersheba. It melts before they get there, of course."

With a lift of 170 chairs, half a mile long, Israel this year joined the Middle East ski boom, which stretches exotically from Iran through neighboring Lebanon.

In Iran, the well-equipped skier takes along a Persian carpet and a samovar. While the wife or a servant spreads the carpet and brews tea in the samovar, the skier skis.

In affluent Lebanon, where gold-plated ski poles are not out of place, the main action takes place near the famed Cedars of Lebanon.

"In Israel it's a kind of Rip Van Winkle land," says

McCrensky. "Most of the people who know how to ski immigrated from Europe 20 or 30 years ago and they haven't been on skis since."

"They come up here and use techniques we've never seen before," says McCrensky, 23. "It's like a museum. We learn more from them than they do from us."

The lift goes up to 6,603 feet and the snow in some places lasts well into spring. The skiing is open slope—there isn't a tree for miles. The runs are steep, varied and fairly long, and the conditions in one descent can range from ice to powder to wet spring snow, or rocks and mud.

Until the 1967 Middle East war, Israel didn't have any skiing at all. Then it captured Hermon on the Syrian Golan Heights—two wrecked Syrian tanks mark the road to the skilift—and an Israeli Ski Club was born.

Speedway Remodeling

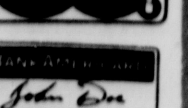

When the Indianapolis Speedway was built in 1909, more than 3,000,000 bricks were used to line the 2 1/2 mile track, and it became known as "The Brickyard." The bricks have since been

Let Cook Vacation, Too

By AILEEN CLAIRE

NEA Food Editor

Family camping takes many forms in all parts of the country. Some families go the tent-and-no-conveniences route. Others drive mobile campers and pull in to campsites with electricity, recreation buildings and hot-and-cold showers. Whatever the choice, cooking continues to be the chore of a housewife really not on vacation when it comes to feeding appetites whetted by outdoor activities. Many women find the new cooking magic bags for roasting, boiling, freezing and reheating with little cleanup make the "vacation" job much easier.

COOKING MAGIC CHILI

4 cups water
1 teaspoon cumin
1 tablespoon onion flakes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
2 tablespoons chili powder
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon all-spice
1/2 teaspoon red pepper
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar
3 bay leaves
1 (15 oz.) can kidney beans
2 pounds ground chuck
Mix all ingredients except meat in a 12x18-inch cooking magic bag. Crumble in uncooked meat. Twist tie shut 2 inches from top. Place in a 13x9-inch baking pan. Puncture 5-6 small holes in top of bag. Bake 2 hours in pre-heated 350-degree oven. Cook. Skim off excess grease. Then freeze flat in 2 serving portions in 8x10-inch cooking magic bags for camping trip. Heat in boiling water, uncovered, for 25-30 minutes to serve.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, cleaned and sliced
5 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
5 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup light cream
Salt and pepper
2 cups diced or slivered, cooked chicken
1 package (8 oz.) thin spaghetti
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In a skillet lightly brown mushrooms in 1 tablespoon butter. Remove from skillet and reserve. Melt remaining butter in skillet. Stir in flour. Remove from heat and stir in chicken broth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until smooth and thickened. Add cream. Season to taste. Divide sauce in half. Add chicken and mushrooms to one half. Meanwhile cook spaghetti to the firm stage according to package directions. Drain and stir in the other half of the sauce.

Place in 10x15-inch cooking magic bag in a 2-quart casserole. Turn top open in a double fold. Put spaghetti mixture into casserole. Make a hole in the center of the spaghetti and pour in the cooled chicken mixture. Twist bag close to top of food and secure with twister tie and freeze. To reheat, place bag in boiling water, uncovered, for 25-30 minutes until piping hot. Open bag, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and serve.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

1 small box regular chocolate pudding
1 3/4 cups milk
1 cup miniature marshmallows

Place pudding in 8x10-inch cooking magic bag. Stir in milk. Twist tie shut. Shake contents well. Place in pan one half full of boiling water. Cover. Cook 5 minutes, remove bags with tongs, shake again. Place in boiling water, cook an additional 10 minutes. Remove bag with tongs, cool 1 minute. Open bag and stir in miniature marshmallows. Pour into bowl or pan and chill. Makes 4 servings.

New-Old Bedroom Look

Four-poster or demi-canopies are back in the news and especially effective with the 60x80-inch double bed. More classic fabric design shown is repeated on the walls, bedspread and draperies following the total coordination idea. (NEA)

Canopy Is Crowning Touch

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There is something new, but old, in the American bedroom. The larger-sized double bed, most recently called queen-size, that is becoming popular in master bedrooms designed with spaciousness in mind now takes on a modern-but-nostalgic touch with the revival of the canopy.

Canopy four-poster beds were used to keep sleepers cozy from drafts and damp stone walls in the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries. The ancient Egyptians are credited with originating the canopy or poster bed, and its form has changed little through the centuries. However, today's use of a canopy is a far cry from the time of the Pharaohs, when the canopy was raised over a bed as a sun umbrella.

According to the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers, the canopy is perfect for the new double-bed size of 60x80 inches. Those who want the traditional four-posters may select them in stainless steel, chrome, brass, lacquered woods and as period reproductions in cherry, walnut or pine.

However, an even newer trend is to the use of fabric canopies that go solo or without the bedstead. These often are suspended from the ceiling, as are the four-poster draperies-without-posts. Then there are the fool-the-eye canopies that are really papered or painted as an eye-catching wall or ceiling panel.

Do-it-yourselfers may run fabric matching the bedspread up the wall, tack it onto the ceiling and weight it with dressmaker weights to hang enticingly as a demi-canopy. Generally ruffles and organdies are out for a fabric choice and replacing them are damasks, homespun crewele, stripes, geometrics or solid-colored felts plain or patched together for a modern pattern.

A canopy can be the crowning point of a bedroom with a truly personal touch. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

World's Embroidery Capital

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

SAINT GALL, Switzerland — (NEA) — This is the world center of the embroidery and textile industry. Settled in A.D. 612 by an Irish monk, Saint Gall nestles in a valley between two ranges of hills.

Still standing are medieval houses with brightly-painted timbers clustered around the cathedral and library, both with interiors offering perfect samples of rococo art at its most flamboyant.

Swiss embroidery forms the backdrop of the entire town, from the traditional eyelet embroidery to table and bed linen, curtains and handkerchiefs.

The people here like to boast of their extensive education facilities which include world renowned professional schools. Saint Gall is also a teeming business center, staging innumerable congresses and fairs. There is a plethora of banks — literally one on every street.

But as the wife of one of the leading textile men remarked: "We in St. Gall live, eat, sleep and dress in embroidery. Sometimes it gets a little wearisome."

As far back as 1790, the Saint Gall embroiderers employed 30-40,000 women, recruited not only locally and in neighboring cantons, but beyond the frontiers of France, Italy and Germany. Then the work was all done by hand.

In 1859 the embroidery machine made its appearance. Then a generation or so later came the electronic machine with the possibility of using as many as 10 different colors. Today designs are computerized by a wizard machine named Punchedmat.

The Punchedmat can accomplish up to 12,000 perforations per hour. The man at the controls, however, which calls for heightened concentration, operates on an average of 5,000 to 6,000 perforations per hour.

It's a long, long way since the days of the naive eyelet embroidery (also known as broderie anglaise). Today's designs and patterns are far and away more complicated and more sophisticated.

Newest is the "superimposed" embroidery. This comprises raised motifs, either floral or abstract, sewn onto a lace or embroidered background. In the recent Paris spring collections, many of the high fashion houses showed models in this embroidery.

Foremost producer of the ultramodern Saint Gall product is the firm of Forster Willi, supplier to all the leading couturiers in European capitals.

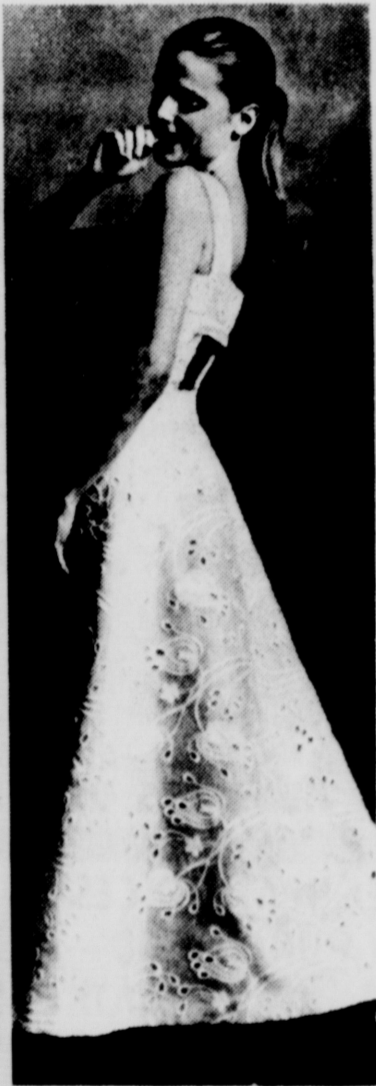

According to Tobias C. Forster, third generation of the firm, their net revenue is 20-30 million Swiss francs per year — $6-7 million.

The young and outgoing Forster brothers (the oldest is under 40) are proud of being the first to have installed four circular electronic knitting machines.

Another Swiss manufacturer who thinks in terms of tomorrow is Jakob Schlaepfer. He first devised the way of producing sequin embroidery by the yard, as well as quilted patterns, smocking, and is now concentrating on the new trend, i.e. "in relief" applications.

Saint Gall follows closely the fashion trends of Paris, New York, London and Rome.

But the Swiss embroiderers, eminently realistic, are well aware that fashion is evanescent and have by no means placed all their eggs in one basket. Which means that all continue their output of the time-tested traditional products for which they long since have won universal recognition. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Embroidered Fashions

Two high fashion designs in Saint Gall embroidery from Paris spring collections are left, a red and white Givenchy with the new superimposed flowers and right, eyelet for evening, a red and blue with white silk organza from Forster Willi. (NEA)

Polly's Pointers

Smooth Plastic Hanger Desired

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Hopefully the right manufacturer will see this — my Pet Peeve. I do wish plastic coat hangers were made without all those slots and curlicues as it is almost impossible to remove a garment from them without catching some part of it. I have tried covering these annoying areas with masking tape, have tried breaking them off but nothing has really solved the problem. We need a well shaped SMOOTH plastic hanger. — ALMA

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. C.L.N. who had a dispute with her daughter as to whether or not one should leave plastic covers on new lamp shades. Such covers should definitely be removed. The wrapped cellophane ones warp from the heat of the bulbs and the moisture content in the room. The ones that have elastic top and bottom sometimes fit quite loosely and are not affected by the heat and moisture but they are unsightly. We have been in the furniture business for years and always tell our customers to remove the dust wraps before using them. — MARTHA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I rinse my baby's rubber pants with sudsy water and then sprinkle them with baby powder after each wearing but they always have an odor. I hope some of the other girls who have been successful in removing such an odor will give me some suggestions. — KAREN

DEAR POLLY — A friend of mine had some woven gauze diapers (20x40-inch) that she did not want to use for rags so she dyed a dozen each red, yellow and blue. She sewed them together lengthwise using flat seams and alternating the colors. They were hemmed so the brand name was concealed in the hems and were used as cafe style curtains over the many windows in her sun porch.

Made all of one color, the frequent seams would have been more obvious, but alternating the colors solved that problem and they look quite modern and compatible with the vogue for patchwork. — S.O.

DEAR POLLY — A very handy head covering while doing housework is a short tie-around-the-waist apron. The apron strings are so convenient for tying around the head and the apron part covers the hair. — MARJORY (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Summer Project Is Open

Rent-A-Kid, a summer project of the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., will operate in Sedalia again this year, according to Richard Schreck, coordinator for the program.

A non-profit community betterment project, Rent-A-Kid attempts to help youths 10 to 18 years old find jobs of various description and duration.

Schreck stated it is rare for Rent-A-Kid to place a youngster in a job for the whole summer. Most youths are hired on a short-term basis, which means that usually a good number of youngsters are available to work.

One misconception about last year's program, in Schreck's estimation, is that the public was not sure of the program's major purpose. It is up to the public to make the program a success, and the public should realize that Rent-A-Kid is merely looking for odd jobs for youth, he said.

Hoping for better success in the program this year, Rent-A-Kid is housed above the Chamber of Commerce and is open now, Schreck said.

Further information may be obtained by calling Schreck or Bill Buzard, Manpower director, at 826-0804.

Kennett Blaze Costly

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — A five-hour blaze Wednesday night destroyed or heavily damaged the stores on the east side of the town square in Kennett.

Two firemen were injured fighting the fire and three policemen suffered minor injuries.

Flames broke out about 7 p.m. at the rear of the Sterling Variety Store in the middle of the block. After about an hour of pouring water on the building firemen thought they just about had the blaze under control.

But brisk winds caused the fire to spread southward to the two-story Shelton office building, which had a sporting goods store on the first floor. The building was gutted and the nearby Hamra's Department Store heavily damaged.

The fire also spread northward to destroy the Bickerstaff Jewelry Store and caused heavy damage to the Montgomery Ward Store. Firemen played water on the adjacent City Hall to protect it.

Fire units from the bootheel town of Hayti, Mo., and Malden responded and help was also sent from the Arkansas towns of Rector, Blytheville, and Jonesboro.

John Matheny of the Hayti department suffered smoke inhalation and Glen Earl Harris of the Kennett fire department suffered a broken arm when a hose broke loose.

Fire officials said they suspected the fire might have started in a trash container at the rear of the variety store. No damage estimate was immediately available.

Raytown Resident Is Electrocuted

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — A Raytown, Mo., resident was electrocuted Wednesday when he accidentally came in contact with a 1,460-volt power line.

The victim was Alan W. Tucker, 25, a lawyer.

The body was taken down by Maurice A. Thompson, a lineman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., who had to cut wires to clear a path to lower it from the pole.

Sedalia Students Awarded Degrees

Four Sedalia residents received Associate in Arts degrees from Columbia College at the college's 121st commencement recently.

They are Miss Jan Lea Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Hoffman, 825 West Sixth; Miss Susan Ann Knaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Knaus, Route 5;

Miss Sarah Marian Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Robinson, 34 Town House Manor; and Miss Margaret L. Sneed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Sneed Jr., Route 5.

While at Columbia College, Miss Hoffman was president of the St. Cecilia Society, and received a certificate of merit in music along with her degree.

Miss Knaus was a member of Campus Ambassadors, official campus hostesses; Phi Sigma Gamma, modern language honorary; Delta Eta Chi, science honorary; and Dolphins swim club.

Miss Robinson was a member of Phi Theta Kappa, national scholastic honorary; Campus

Ambassadors; Delta Eta Chi, science honorary; and St. Cecilia Society. She was president of Vesper Board, and a member of Double Sextette, touring vocal group.

Miss Sneed was a member of Phi Sigma Gamma, modern language honorary, and was named to the Dean's Honor List two semesters.

Debut Of Special Is Fair

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Melba Moore-Clifton Davis Show" had its debut on CBS Wednesday night, the first of five programs replacing the "Carol Burnett Show." The two stars, young, vibrant and talented, were able to surmount the tired material that surrounded them.

Summer programs let networks give a chance to new talent, an opportunity grasped rather infrequently but an act that should be encouraged.

Miss Moore and Davis, off-stage lovers who made their relationship explicit at the opening of the show, came into the nation's living rooms with warmth and impact—when they were singing together, CBS, probably in an effort to hedge its bets, put them into a format containing all the Hollywood musical-variety clichés.

Thus one encountered two fresh, eager performers in the opening segment unflinchingly reading cutesy lines from the cue cards with something less than Actors' Studio skills. The nonmusical parts were strictly from a comedy writers' well-thumbed notebook. At one point Davis recited the hours at which the Flip Wilson program, "Sanford and Son" and their own program was broadcast, 8 p.m. EDT. Melba moved in for the clincher: "Do you think there's a curfew for us black people?"

The variety hour's premise was an apartment house in which Melba and Clifton have apartments. The landlady is Moms Mabley—who had no more than a half-dozen lines. Also present are a comic handyman and a couple of strange tenants.

The format and the dialogue were tired, but the show really took off and soared when Miss Moore, sometimes alone and sometimes with Davis, got around to singing. They were moments worth suffering for.

Some of the greatest stage performers unfortunately come through the television screen curiously shorn of the magic that makes them exciting on the boards. Melba Moore, however, comes into the living room intact, an appealing, starry-eyed girl with a great voice. Davis is easy and graceful with great charm and compliments her beautifully. They make a fine team.

"The Melba Moore-Clifton Davis Show" may not have been an unqualified success, but one must be grateful for the chance they have been given. Now how about trying out some new writers, directors and producers?

Details Problems Firm Must Correct

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

George Gregory, director of environmental control for the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., Wednesday clarified the corrections which he said the local firm must make to meet the minimum standards established by the Missouri Air Conservation Commission (MACC).

"We must alter our visible fume density, which is currently too high, and lower the pounds of dust that are presently being emitted in fumes," he said.

The firm has set an August deadline to correct these two conditions and plans to change the chemical composition of its product rather than install anti-pollution devices.

Mickey Marshall, MACC chief of enforcement, said three phases of the local firm's manufacturing processes were examined for compliance with environmental regulations and only one was found to be deficient.

"We checked three source operations," Marshall said. "One operation being where the glass is made, the second, where the glass is formed into one product and the third where the glass is shaped into another product."

"We found one phase of the first operation to be lacking," Marshall continued. "It's represented by the smoke stack visible from a distance."

Elaborating on Gregory's explanation, Marshall said the mass weight of particles contained in fumes emitted from the smokestack, according to company figures, exceeded the maximum standards established by the MACC. Company officials here declined to specify the statistics.

Marshall indicated the local company's decision to alter the chemical composition of its glass manufacturing process represented a far better approach to the problem than installing anti-pollution devices.

"It's much, much superior," he said. "Whenever you have these devices, you run the risk of having mechanical breakdowns."

Alton Hit By Racial Disorders

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Police Wednesday night blamed racial tension for the third straight night of trouble — including nine fire bombings in a ten-minute period.

No injuries were reported but a small repair service garage at Ninth and Bell streets was heavily damaged by fire. Most of the other firebombings caused little or no damage.

Two motorists told police shots were fired at their cars, but the shots missed.

Early Wednesday three Alton police cars were fired on in the predominantly black Middletown area. Police returned the fire. On Wednesday night officers said they found numerous posters bearing anti-police slogans.

The racial trouble followed the arrest of a black youth Monday night for a curfew violation. Another person was arrested for interfering with police and later about 40 persons protested the arrests at the Alton police station.

Initial Carload Of Wheat

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The first carload of 3,500 bushels of 1972 wheat arrived in Kansas City Wednesday from Independence, Kan.

Horace W. Johnston, president of the Kansas City Board of Trade auctioned the shipment to the Pillsbury Co. for $1.65 a bushel, about 10 cents above the market price.

Grain traders estimated it would be about 10 days before the wheat harvest reaches full momentum in the southern counties of Kansas.

The first load, grading number one heavy hard, with a test weight of 62.2 pounds, 13.8 per cent moisture and 10.8 per cent protein, was shipped by the Star Mill Co. of Independence.

Last year's first load of new wheat arrived on June 10. The earliest date on record is May 21 and the latest is June 19.

The latest official estimates on this year's Kansas wheat crop is 288 million bushels. Some crop specialists say it may run as high as 300.

A record crop of 313 million bushels was harvested last year. Kansas, the No. 1 wheat state in the nation, usually accounts for about one-third of the national production.

Body Recovered

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The body of Herbert M. Land, 25, of Sunflower Village, was recovered from the Kansas River Wednesday. Land was drowned Tuesday while trying to swim across the river.

Arbuckle Mountains Big Oklahoma Attraction

By ANN FARMER
The Greenville, Tex.
Herald Banner

For The Associated Press
ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — Formed about 275 million years ago, one of the most complex geological areas of the United States has been known to man for only a scant 70 years.

Students of geology only made surface studies of the region for the first quarter century after the geological significance of the Arbuckle Mountains and other formations near this south Oklahoma town were discovered.

Thus, the pre-historic past, held captive in the numerous rock quarries of the area, has been relatively overlooked until recent years.

In 1927, old U. S. 77 was built and passes were blasted through some of the hills, exposing rock formations that gave scientists a deeper look into the secrets of the 1,000 square mile area.

Today, thousands of motorists daily travel through this geology-rich area on Interstate 35, completely oblivious to the fact that they are surrounded by anything more than gigantic cuts through the mountains of solid rock.

They don't even realize the significance of the never-ending streams of scientists and students, who can be seen most any day chipping away at the towering rock walls, photographing the tilted and folded rock formations and search endlessly for fossils.

Rock formations 500 million years old have been found by scientists in the upturned rocks that were once the floor of a vast sea.

Some unusually powerful force started to lift that floor about 280 million years ago, draining away the water in a span of time that could have been up to 10 million years.

The movement was not sudden or violent, but of such tremendous force that the highest elevation of the formation is about 1,400 feet above sea level.

Though topographically low for a mountain range, the Arbuckles are tremendously high structurally because of the exceptional depth of the basement rocks in the formation.

Dr. Kerby LaPrade, professor of earth sciences at East Texas State University in Commerce, says that the interest in the rock formations of the earth is growing—in part because of rocks brought back from the moon by the astronauts.

Reviewing his experiences in the field, Dr. LaPrade concludes that each person sees a rock differently. "I think about the conditions when it was formed—where the seas were and how deep they were. Another fellow doesn't see it at all, and another one just sees beauty," he explains.

One of his favorite stories developed during a field trip with a bunch of students where Interstate 35 cuts through the Arbuckles.

A passing car with a Kansas license plate stopped and the occupants looked over the activities of the students. Then two men jumped from the car, hastily loading a watermelon-sized "rock" into the trunk and hastily sped off down the highway.

LaPrade, who says he was about 50 feet from the scene of the abduction, says he hasn't figured out what the Kansans wanted with 50 pounds of concrete.

During the two-year construction of Interstate 35 through the Arbuckles, members of the Oklahoma Geological Survey worked closely with the road builders.

A $50,000 geological salvage survey was conducted by the geologists, who also offered money-saving advice when a series of cave-ins threatened the whole project.

Blasting of 4-million yards of rock for Interstate 35 through the Arbuckles was started in 1967.

A member of the Geological Survey, Dr. Robert O. Fay, says, "There had been so many deaths on the old Highway 77, it was a question of human life or ecology."

"No, there were few protests about the project and our survey did work closely with the construction, following each step of work and each rock formation brought into view."

Some structures that have leaked oil at the surface cuts have yielded producing wells at depths of several thousand feet.

Ann Landers

Love Is Beautiful But Not Like This

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old daughter and her 17-year-old boyfriend can't seem to keep their hands off each other. She is forever running her fingers through his hair, petting him, smoothing his sideburns or giving his hand a squeeze. They often sit with their arms around one another — or she sits on his lap. He kisses the palms of her hands or her neck — all this in front of anybody: neighbors, friends, parents, grandparents.

Both my husband and I have told them such behavior is not appropriate. They tell us we are old-fashioned, that they are not ashamed of their feelings and love is beautiful.

Do you agree with them? They said you would. I'm not so sure. — Her Parents

Dear Parents: I agree that love is beautiful, but what you describe isn't love. Pawing, massaging and smooching in the presence of others puts a cheap connotation on something that should be precious and private.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister-in-law and I are close friends. We have always been fond of each other and now that we live in a duplex we spend a lot of time together. Our husbands are good buddies, too, so it makes it a nice foursome.

The problem is that we've gotten into a habit of stuffing ourselves with rich food just for laughs. For example, last week we made a triple batch of peanut butter cookies and we ate every last one. Saturday afternoon we baked a lemon pie, ate the WHOLE thing and laughed ourselves sick. Last night we devoured a bowl of raw cookie dough (it was delicious), two 12-ounce servings of chocolate pudding, and then we polished off the leftover roast beef.

We aren't fat yet — just about 20 pounds overweight. But at the rate we're going we'll be as big as a couple of houses. Any suggestions? — Any Food Goes

Dear A.F.: Interesting that you don't consider 20 pounds overweight "fat." How many pounds of excess baggage constitutes "fat" to your way of thinking? Thirty? Forty? Fifty? If you don't get some counseling you'll eventually be up there. Your eating habits are not normal.

May I also suggest that you two vacuum cleaners with teeth get busy with some projects that will take you out of the kitchen? You girls have too much spare time.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 40, the father of four nice children. I am writing about my mother-in-law. Her husband died two years ago and she still cries and carries on like the funeral was yesterday.

I liked my father-in-law a lot. He was a good guy, but I must say he was hen-pecked like nobody I ever saw in my life. His wife treated him as if he was a moron. She wouldn't let him open his mouth. She corrected his English and finished his sentences. She wouldn't even allow him to drive when she was in the car. This might be a terrible thing to say but when he died my thought was, "The poor guy — at last."

I think the reason my mother-in-law feels so awful is because she's ashamed of the way she treated him. And since I am doing a little amateur psychology I should confess the reason I am writing this letter is because my wife is getting more like her mother every day. What I am trying to say is I'd rather have a FAIR deal while I am still living than a BIG deal after I am gone. Please print this. — Flowers Now

Dear Flowers: Thanks for unloading. I'll bet you feel better already.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." For a copy, mail 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to this newspaper.

Amtrak Rescue Not Over Yet

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears ready to invest another $225 million in federal grants and $100 million more in guaranteed loans to rescue Amtrak, the financially pinched corporation striving to save America's passenger trains.

Senate-House conferees, handing Congress their compromise bill Tuesday, knocked out an urban-corridor-improvements plan containing $50 million in grants and $100 million in guaranteed loans. But they agreed to provide $2 million a year to help link U.S. intercity service to Canada and Mexico.

The 10-man conference committee, proposing terms to settle differences in conflicting aid bills on Amtrak, the National Railroad Passenger Corp., accepted a provision limiting Amtrak officials' salaries to $60,000 a year with anything more to come only from the corporation's net profits. Amtrak President Roger Lewis draws $125,000 annually.

The Transportation Department urged $170 million in new federal grants for Amtrak, to go along with an original $40-million grant provided under a 1970 law when the federal government created the passenger service-saving operation. Amtrak took over most of the nation's city-connecting passenger-train service in May 1971.

Originally, the House approved the $170 million, but the Senate voted for $270 million. The congressional conferees, headed by Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., settled on $225 million. They also deleted a Senate-passed provision of $15 million in grants to help develop experimental service.

The existing limit on loan guarantees for Amtrak is $100 million. The Senate voted to raise this ceiling to $250 million, but the conferees decided to provide guaranteed loans up to $150 million through June 30, 1973, and up to $200 million thereafter.

Amtrak, which is required by law to continue serving its basic system until July 1, 1973, when it can re-examine its responsibilities, also began life with $197 million from participating railroads.

Other major provisions in the compromise authorization bill, intended to resolve disputes created by separate versions that have been approved by Senate and House, include requirements that Amtrak directly operate and control all aspects of its rail passenger service insofar as practicable, and that Amtrak take steps to raise revenues by carrying mail and express.

Debate Might Highlight Convention

By DON HORINE
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With more youth and minority delegates than ever before, the Democratic National Convention may be stronger on debate than compromise, say some of Sen. George McGovern's California delegates.

"I think these people are so idealistic and independent minded that they'll refuse to make any compromises whatsoever," Mike Herrera, a 26-year-old delegate from suburban Torrance, said in an interview Wednesday.

"If there should be a deadlock, it will be an absolute stalemate. I can't see these people, now that they've got a voice after working so hard, changing their minds no matter what kind of a deal anybody offers them."

Under reform rules, the delegations to the July convention in Miami Beach are required to approximate the population of the state they represent.

More than 40 per cent of the 271 persons chosen for the California delegation won by McGovern in Tuesday's primary are blacks, Mexican-Americans and Asian-Americans.

of the delegation and 40 per cent of the delegates are under 30.

The result will be a more democratic convention—possibly more emotional, acrimonious and protracted, some delegates said.

"I think this will be the most wide-open convention ever," said Jeff Hare, 58, who was on the steering committee that chose the delegates.

"I think the quarrels on the committees will be horrendous because people won't be at all anxious for peace and tranquility—they'll be more anxious about things that have plagued them all their lives. It will be far more liberal and radical than any convention ever held by any party in the history of the country."

Other delegates agreed. Stephen J. Herzog, 33, of Moorpark speculated that delegates would be "much less amenable to the kind of traditional bargaining I've read about" and added that he himself would be "hard-nosed."

One delegate, Ralph M. Ochoa, 30, a Mexican-American leader in East Los Angeles, said he felt skeptical of all politics and politicians and that the first test of the party's intentions would be whether minorities were given key positions on convention committees.

"This will be the real test of the new politics," Ochoa said. "We're going into an arena where the party loyalist will try to control things."

AEC Budget Proposal Approved

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The $2.6 billion Atomic Energy Commission budget authorization bill passed by the U.S. House Wednesday does not carry any funds for creating an atomic waste repository at Lyons, Kan.

Rep. Bill Roy, D-Kan., said the omission is a victory for the people of Kansas.

The measure's reference to establishment of a waste depository deletes Lyons and inserts the clause "site undetermined."

Roy issued a statement through his Topeka office which said:

"Until last year, the AEC was proceeding rapidly toward its goal of making Kansas the final resting place for nuclear waste from across the nation."

"The commission was brushing aside warnings that there were grave questions of safety connected with the site."

"There appeared to be little chance of diverting the AEC from its course, but with the help of Gov. (Robert) Docking, Congressman (Joe) Skubitz, and the Kansas Geological Survey, we have done just that."

Roy said he congratulates the AEC on its decision to pursue alternative methods of storage, "methods that hopefully will not endanger the health and safety of the people of the state of Kansas."

SPEED READING COURSE TO BEGIN IN SEDALIA AREA

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 21-hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed over 1,000 words per minute and with at least 15 per cent increase in comprehension.

After the seven week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice for those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one-hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, classroom procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever is most convenient for you. These free one-hour orientations will be held as follows: Wednesday, June 7, 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Thursday, June 8, 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Friday, June 9, 7:30-8:30 p.m.

A final meeting Monday, June 12, 7:30-8:30 p.m. These meetings will be held at Holiday Inn, Sedalia, Mo. Persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent.

Singer Links Opera, Racing

NEW YORK (AP) — Lauritz Melchior, 82, one of the most famous Wagnerian tenors of all time, in New York recently from his California home to hear some young tenors and baritones, likened a Wagnerian opera to a horse race.

"These long Wagnerian operas always have all the big arias for the tenor at the end. You have to know how to sing and you have to know, like the jockey who rides the horse, that you can not lead the field the whole time. You must know how to fall back from the other important horses in the race. But you must know how to win in the stretch. That is why you can't just sing, you have to learn how to sing these things."

The young men singing for Melchior were contestants for the Melchior Heldenentor Foundation prize, which is money to study for a year plus money to live on while studying. The singer who wins, and Melchior will hear more of them in other U.S. cities and in Europe, will train specifically to be a heldentenor, or heroic tenor, for Wagner operas.

Melchior himself started as a baritone, making his debut in 1913 in the Royal Opera House in his native Copenhagen. He made his debut as a heldentenor in 1918, in "Tannhauser," having taken a year off to study. Later he studied with Wagner's widow, Cosima, and son, Siegfried, at the Wagnerian opera house in Bayreuth. He made his debut there in 1924 in "Parsifal."

"Heldenentors are special voices and they develop later, in a man's 30s," Melchior says, "often after he has a family and can't take a year off to train properly."

"It is not a usual tenor voice; it comes mostly from high baritone voices. You have to have that solid bottom range to build on. If you do not have that, and you try to press your voice down, then you lose your high notes. A tenor can try it and can ruin himself."

"There are very few heldentors today," Melchior says. "That is why I have my foundation, to try to develop some good heroic voices."

Melchior, still erect, tall and imposing in appearance with a white mustache, beard and hair, also, as he always is remembered by those who've known him a long time, still is fond of a good time and a wit-ticism.

Asked where he lives, he replies, "Everywhere there is something to eat and drink." Then he says, "I live in California on top of a mountain in a house called the Viking. I have five and a half acres there, a garden and a swimming pool where I can throw the people I don't like."

Melchior is willing to talk about the past or today. He sang in Wagner operas with Kirsten Flagstad and Helen Traubel, but his favorite Sieglinde and Elsa in "Lohengrin" was Lotte Lehmann and his favorite Brunnhilde and Isolde was Frida Leider.

Melchior sang at the Metropolitan Opera for 24 seasons, singing more than 500 performances in Wagner operas. At the Met and other opera houses, he sang 971 Wagnerian performances.

Filming of 'Man of La Mancha' Costly

Epic—And Costly

James Coco, left, plays Sancho Panza and Peter O'Toole is Don Quixote in the movie version of the musical, "Man of La Mancha." It is being filmed on location in Italy, at a cost of $11 million and it may be the last of the movie epics. Depressed economics have made the $2 million picture the norm nowadays.

wrong?" O'Toole demanded. He seemed unsatisfied with the explanation of a technical error. But he turned his white steed and returned for another take. Afterward he remarked that 20-months shooting of "Lawrence of Arabia" in various deserts was less arduous than "Man of La Mancha," which started Jan. 13.

For director Hiller "Man of La Mancha" has also been something of an ordeal, but he seemed to be bearing up under it.

"It's my first musical," said Hiller, who directed "Love Story." It is also his first costume picture, and he faced the challenge of interpreting an internationally accepted legend.

In the musical aspects Hiller has the expert help of associate producer Saul Chaplin, who has supervised music from B pictures to "West Side Story" and "The Sound of Music." It was Chaplin who shook his head to signal a bad take when O'Toole and Coco failed to lip-sync to the playback.

A smiling bland man, Chaplin explained the travails of making a musical in Italy:

"It has never been done before. The studio technicians had no concept of how to go about it, and we had to teach them every step of the way."

"The toughest part was getting good musicians. You'd think that would be easy in Italy. It's not. Their symphony is poor, their opera is good only when they get the right stars to perform. The best musicians are in radio and television, and we had to wait until they were available."

O'Toole and co-star Sophia Loren recorded their own songs. Sophia was a "revelation," said both Hiller and Chaplin; neither knew she could sing so well. O'Toole's songs are more demanding, especially in "The Impossible Dream." While he has "a good dramatic sense," some of his notes may have to be "sweetened" by a more trained voice.

TARQUINIA, Italy (AP) — On a bleak Etruscan hill Don Quixote was about to do battle with a creaking windmill in a scene for what may be one of the last of the movie epics.

Here in Italy United Artists is spending $11 million to film "Man of La Mancha" in a style to which American movie companies are no longer accustomed. Three or four years ago, such outlays were fairly common. Not now. Depressed economics have made the $2 million picture the norm.

Even Arthur Hiller is astonished at the budget for the musical he is completing.

"If it were my decision, I don't think I'd spend that much money in today's film market," said the producer-director.

Under a threatening sky, Hiller was trying to film the title song on the mid-Italy hills that are doubling for Spain's La Mancha. It was a simple scene in which Peter O'Toole as Quixote and Broadway star James Coco as Sancho Panza advance toward the windmill on horseback and mule-back.

The animals balked. The sky changed. The actors couldn't match their lips to the musical playback. After a seemingly faultless 11th take, director Hiller called for another.

'Scenic Rivers' Display Now Open

"Ozark Scenic Rivers," a 61-piece photographic display depicting Missouri's scenic rivers, is currently on exhibit in the student union of State Fair Community College.

The exhibit, sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division in cooperation with the college art department, will be open through June 28. It is produced by former Sedalian Leland Payton, an independent photographer, who was commissioned by MU and the Kansas City Association of Trusts and Foundations.

Pilots Request Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA) today asked all union workers to join in boycotting airlines of nations that sanction skyjackers and air extortionists.

At the same time, the union said it has arranged for special training for its 46,000 members from the FBI on how to handle air pirates. The training, he indicated, will mean a tougher attitude toward air criminals.

John J. O'Donnell, ALPA president, said if a boycott of countries serving as hijack havens is to be effective, the pilots must have international cooperation from workers who service aircraft around the globe.

O'Donnell made public a letter to AFL-CIO President George Meany urging him to induce other unions to join the boycott.

"Many would undoubtedly feel a kinship with our cause and the means we are taking to make air travel safe throughout the world," O'Donnell wrote. "With the help of union members throughout the world, we can work together to eliminate the crime of aerial piracy."

Coverage Mistake Reported

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Glen Hanson, an aide to Lt. Gov. Reynolds Shultz, has made public a letter to Kansas Highway Director John D. Montgomery which says news media misinterpreted Shultz's remarks at Oberlin Monday.

Hanson said Shultz, who seeks the Republican nomination for governor, did take a "slap" at the system of administering the state's highway building program but said:

"It has been brought to my attention that a major segment of the news media has interpreted the lieutenant governor's remarks Monday at Oberlin, Kan., as an indirect slap at John Montgomery."

"This characterization of Ren's remarks is inaccurate. There was no attack on you.

If the lieutenant governor had concluded you deserved a slap, he undoubtedly would have administered one. And it wouldn't have been indirect."

Hanson said the system of administering the highway program "did not originate with the Docking administration, although if political patronage hadn't existed, I'm sure Robert Docking would have invented it."

"Ren pointed out that we have had a highway director who was a newspaper publisher and a highway director who was a clothier. Some research would show that a clothier was appointed by a Republican administration."

Hanson said Shultz proposed removing the job of highway director from politics "because highway building is too important to all the people of Kansas to be subject to manipulation for political motives."

Rothenberg Is Found Guilty

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — David Rothenberg of Collinsville, Ill., was found guilty Wednesday night of conspiracy to murder insurance investigator William S. Wells of Glen Carbon, Ill.

Rothenberg, 29, was Wells' attorney. Testimony during the trial showed he had an affair with Wells' wife. The body of Wells, 41, was found in the trunk of his car in an East St. Louis parking lot last December. He had been beaten and shot.

The jury, of eight men and four women, deliberated more than five hours before returning the verdict. The jury found Rothenberg innocent on two other counts in the Madison County grand jury indictment, those of murder and solicitation to murder.

Jury foreman John Stone said afterward the jurors were convinced Rothenberg did not do the actual killing and most of their discussion concerned the solicitation and conspiracy charges.

The charge on which Rothenberg was convicted carries a penalty of 1-20 years in prison. Sentencing was delayed by Circuit Judge Michael Kinney.

Rothenberg's lawyers, Irving Wiseman and Gerald McGivern, said they will appeal the verdict, asking either that it be set aside or a new trial ordered.

Wiseman said he thought the conviction was the result of

Jury Convicts In St. Joseph

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A jury convicted 17-year-old William Ernest Saunders of manslaughter Wednesday in the slaying of another teen-ager.

The state asked for a second-degree murder verdict, contending Saunders killed 17-year-old Ronnie Davidson with a baseball bat in an unprovoked attack.

Saunders testified a girl had told him Davidson was saying things about him. Saunders said Davidson swung at him first and he used the bat in self-defense.

Davidson was killed almost a year ago in the front yard of a neighbor's house in a south part of the city.

The jury of 12 men could not agree on a penalty and left it up to Judge Fred E. Schoenlaub.

The penalty could range from a fine to 10 years in prison.

Await Expansion Decision

Crafty Pollock Collects, Pays on Favors

MONTREAL (AP) — There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that the National Hockey League holds its annual summer meetings in Montreal as a result of one of Sam Pollock's trades.

But just about everything else going on at hockey's summer conclave revolves around the crafty general manager of the Canadiens, who spends the week paying off and collecting on past favors.

Pollock paid one off Wednesday, shipping veteran goalie Denie Dejordy and four minor league players to the New York Islanders for what was described as "cash and other considerations." At least one of the "other considerations" reportedly was having the Islanders select defenseman Bart Crashley from the Canadiens in the expansion draft, allowing Pollock to keep a promising player like Bob Murdoch for Montreal.

Pollock was set to collect on some of his earlier wheeling and dealing today in the amateur draft of graduating junior players. The Canadiens' record, third best in the NHL last year, entitled them to the 14th amateur selection. But Pollock's earlier maneuvers secured choices from Los Angeles, California and Pittsburgh. That gave the Canadiens the fourth, sixth and eighth picks as well as their own No. 14.

The Islanders were scheduled to make the first amateur pick Bill Harris, a husky right winger who scored 57 goals and had 129 points for Toronto of the Ontario Hockey Association last year. Atlanta, the other expansion franchise, was to follow by choosing Jacques Richard, a center who had 71 goals and 160 points for the Quebec Remparts last season.

Both Harris and Richard are touted as "can't miss" prospects, and they will charge the New York and Atlanta clubs fancy prices for signatures on pro contracts. Both also are being sought by the rival World Hockey Association, which has been busy signing players away from NHL clubs.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA) is rooting for the NHL in the bidding for its graduating players and there's a simple reason for it—money. Everytime a junior player is selected and turns pro with an NHL club, it means extra cash for the CAHA.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, announced Wednesday that the payoffs to the amateur association would be increased this year.

For each player selected in the first two rounds of the amateur draft, the CAHA will receive $3,000—the same as the NHL has paid in the past. Should a player selected in those two rounds turn pro, the CAHA gets an additional $7,000, compared to the $3,000 of past years. For the third and fourth rounds, the claiming fee will be $3,000 and the signing price $4,000. Any player selected after the fourth round will cost $2,000 for the claim and an additional $2,000 if he turns pro.

The amateur draft was the last major piece of business for the assembled hockey brass to consider. Earlier Thursday, the Board of Governors was scheduled to award the next two expansion franchises scheduled to start play in the 1974-75 season.

The price will be the standard $6 million each and 10 brave bidders representing eight cities were waiting anxiously for the decision of the governors.

Royals' Magic Continues, 5-4

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tom Burgmeier has become the fireman of the Kansas City Royals.

Burgmeier, after being credited with three saves in his last three appearances, was the winning pitcher in Wednesday night's 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The triumph was the sixth in the Royals' last seven games, and they have come from behind in all six games. It also pulled Kansas City out of the American League West basement.

Burgmeier has been a familiar figure in the late innings of most of the six wins.

"I think I can pitch six or seven days in a row," said Burgmeier, 4-1.

Amos Otis stroked the winning hit, a double that scored Lou Piniella and Ed Kirkpatrick in the eighth after Milwaukee had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the inning.

Of his double, Otis said: "The pitch was a slider, and it was outside. I knew we'd come back. That's the kind of team we are."

Piniella, the AL's leading batter, had three hits, his single starting the eighth inning rally. Kirkpatrick doubled, and Cookie Rojas was walked intentionally to load the bases for Otis.

Otis' double came off reliever Ken Sanders, 1-4.

The Brewers broke a 3-3 tie in the eighth on George Scott's double and Ellie Rodriguez' single.

The Brewers got a run in the first with Dave May hitting a triple to put his team ahead 1-0. May doubled in another run in the third, and John Briggs made it 3-0 in the sixth with a home run.

Steve Hovley's triple and a wild pitch gave the Royals a pair of runs in the sixth when Sanders took over for starter Jim Lonborg. Richie Scheinblum's single in the seventh tied the game.

Scheinblum has an 11-game hitting streak. Five have come in pinch hit roles, including his single Wednesday night.

"They told me to look for sinkers and sliders," Scheinblum said. He took two fast ball strikes from Sanders.

"Then I figured that's what he'd give me again," Scheinblum said. "And I hit it."

Hankins To Manage

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals announced today that Jay Hankins, a former outfielder with the old Kansas City A's, will manage Kingsport, Tenn., in the rookie Appalachian League this summer.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Lou Gorman, Royals' director of minor league operations and scouting.

Hankins, 36, will report to the Royals minor league complex at Sarasota, Fla., Saturday when the Kansas City club will start assembling its rookie clubs. He has been a Royals scout since 1969.

Owen Friend of Wichita, Kan., managed the Kingsport team the last two seasons but will devote full time to scouting this year.

'Now, I'm Warnin' Ya. . .'

Manager Del Rice of the California Angels is warned by umpire Hank Soar after an outburst in the fifth inning of Wednesday's Detroit-California game in Detroit. Rice was protesting a ruling by Soar that Angel pitcher Nolan Ryan went to his mouth with his fingers, awarded the Tiger batter a ball. Rice had little to squak about after the game, California won, 5-1. (UPI)

Royals Draft a Total of 39

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nine more prospective players were selected Wednesday by the Kansas City Royals in the regular phase of the major league baseball player draft in New York.

The Royals also drafted two players in the secondary draft. Secondary draft players are those who have been drafted previously but did not sign contracts.

Kansas City had drafted 28 players Tuesday, making a total of 39.

The secondary phase draftees are Charles Payne, a pitcher from Delta State College at Cleveland, Miss., and Jerry Maddox, a third baseman from Cerritos College in Norwalk, Calif. Payne is 21, 6-foot-1, 190 pounds and Maddox 18, 6-2 and 195.

Players selected by the Royals in the last nine rounds:

29. Doug Buchanan, catcher, 21, 6-2, Eastern College, Baltimore.

30. Don Spare, shortstop, Chapman College, Orange, Calif.

31. Greg Fairbanks, pitcher, 18, 5-11, Satellite Beach, Fla., High.

32. Bernard Hunting, infielder, 18, 5-11, 165, Rockford, Mich., High.

33. James Auriger, shortstop, 18, 5-11, Corcoran High, Syracuse, N.Y.

34. Tom Roberts, Catcher, University of North Carolina.

35. Rod Boone, Outfielder, 31, 6-3, 195, Stanford.

36. John Urz, infielder, 21, 5-9, San Jose State.

37. Eric Littell, catcher, 18, 6-0, 185, Gideon, Mo., High.

Says Smiling Jack Has Them Scared at Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've got them scared and I know it," says trainer Ralph McIlvaine who will send Smiling Jack into Saturday's Belmont Stakes against the likes of Riva Ridge and Key To The Mint.

"I think I have an advantage," McIlvaine said Wednesday in assessing his Jersey Derby winner's chances in the 1½-mile final race of the Triple Crown.

"They've tried one another," said McIlvaine, speaking of Riva Ridge and Key To The Mint, the Belmont favorites, who have met four times. "I know what they can do but they don't know what I can do."

But the veteran trainer was overlooking the Preakness Prep May 13 in which Key To The Mint finished first and Smiling Jack third, beaten four lengths. McIlvaine noted that that race was only the second start for Smiling Jack since he tore his left eyelid three-quarters of the way off in an accident in his stall April 15.

"We beat him in the Preakness Prep" was trainer Elliott Burch's comment as he relaxed after watching Paul Mellon's Key To The Mint work six furlongs in a sizzling 1:10.

For McIlvaine, Smiling Jack, owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. William Harder, will be his first starter in a Triple Crown race in 43 years as a trainer.

Smiling Jack — he was named by Mrs. Harder after a friend who once won a smiling contest — was winless in two starts as a 2-year-old and has five victories, two seconds and two thirds in 12 starts this year. After the Preakness Prep, the son of Beau Gar-Fool's Dame won a 1 1-16-mile allowance race by five lengths and then scored by seven lengths in the 1 1-8-mile Jersey Derby.

The Belmont Park handicapper made Meadow Stable's Riva Ridge, the Kentucky Derby winner, the early favorite in a possible field of 12 3-year-olds for the $125,000-added classic with a scheduled post time of 5:35 p.m., EDT.

Television coverage is set from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. by CBS.

Beat the Pros Tournament Set

The Beat the Pros Tournament at Walnut Hills Country Club will be held Sunday. The two-man teams will play best ball competition using full handicap in an effort to defeat club professional Bob McFerren and Gene Smith, assistant pro.

Entrants may play anytime Sunday prior to 3 p.m. No teams will be allowed to play after that time. Those entered must have an established handicap.

McFerren and Smith will play best ball scratch.

Tim Bull Receives NJCAA Recognition

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Tim Bull of Meramec Junior College, St. Louis, has been named by the National Junior College Athletic Association to the honorable mention list of the NJCAA's All-American squad.

Bull was the only Region (Missouri) junior college player to be named.

Donahue To Test Crash Recorder

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP) — Indianapolis 500 winner Mark Donahue will drive in the Can-Am Challenge Cup races accompanied by a 13-pound electronic crash recorder—enough to make any race driver nervous.

"Hopefully it will never be used," Donahue said Wednesday.

The device will record the stresses and strains on both Donahue and his L & M Porsche-Audi if he crashes.

Traffic safety officials said the recorder will measure such things as acceleration, deceleration, speed, brake pressure and steering wheel motion and that when compared with hospital records more can be learned about the forces that affect the human body in auto crashes.

Asked if the box at his left elbow would make him nervous, Donahue said: "When a guy gets in a car he recognizes that he could crash, and just because there is a box in there, things don't change."

Over-the-Hill Gang Ends 5-game Slump

By HERSCHEL NISSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Blair after the Orioles snapped a five-game losing streak Wednesday night with a convincing 11-2 drubbing of Minnesota.

Coupled with Detroit's 5-1 loss to California, the victory left the Orioles only three games behind the Tigers in the American League despite a 22-22 record.

Elsewhere, Oakland trounced Cleveland 10-4, the Chicago White Sox nipped Boston 2-1, the New York Yankees defeated Texas 7-5 and Kansas City edged Milwaukee 5-4.

Weaver made his "over the hill" crack following Tuesday night's fifth consecutive setback and the Orioles wasted little time in reacting. Bobby Grich, one of three youngsters in the line-up, socked a three-run homer off Minnesota's Jim Perry in the first inning and Pat Dobson scattered 10 hits to even his record at 6-6.

Among the veterans, Dave Johnson drove in two runs while Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson each delivered two hits. The explosion rekindled dreams of a fourth straight pennant.

The Tigers, meanwhile, were held to three hits by California's fireballing Nolan Ryan. The Angels jumped on Joe Niekro for four runs in the fifth inning on singles by Ken McMullen, Leroy Stanton and John Stephenson, a double by Leo Cardenas and Sandy Alomar's two-run single off reliever Chuck Seelbach.

Home runs by Joe Rudi and Mike Epstein in the first inning started the A's on their way to victory as Ken Holtzman, although touched for 14 hits, joined Cleveland's Gaylord Perry and Detroit's Mickey Lolich as the only nine-game winners in the majors.

The A's have a five-game lead in the AL West over Minnesota and Chicago. The White Sox kept pace by edging Boston behind the pitching of Stan Bahnsen and Rich Gossage.

The Yankees pounded Texas' Jim Shellenback and Bill Gogolewski for six runs in the third inning on consecutive singles by Steve Kline, Horace Clarke, Rusty Torres, Bobby Murcer, Roy White and Felipe Alou and Thurman Munson's sacrifice fly and then held off the Rangers.

In the National League...

Perez Replaces Bench as Hero

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I like to see those men on base when I get up to bat," Tony Perez said. There weren't any there when he was finished.

For a change, Cincinnati's Johnny Bench wasn't hitting. But it wasn't his fault. The New York Mets were pitching around him. But that only brought up Perez. And the Reds' first baseman didn't mind a bit.

He drove in four runs Wednesday night, three of them in the first inning with a strategy-wrecking double, that powered Cincinnati's newest version of the Big Red Machine to a 6-3 victory over the fading Mets.

In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh bombed San Diego 12-5, then squeezed out a 1-0 victory for a sweep in the 18-inning nightcap. Philadelphia beat Houston 3-1, Montreal defeated Atlanta 5-2, the Chicago Cubs whipped Los Angeles 5-1 and St. Louis silenced San Francisco 6-0.

The Pirates had little trouble with the Padres in the opener of their twinbill. Willie Stargell drove in five runs with his 12th and 13th homers to lead a 20-hit assault on five San Diego hurlers.

Dave Cash also homered for the Bucs while Nate Colbert and pinch-hitter Jerry Morales put it over the wall for the Padres.

But the second game was a study in contrast. Pittsburgh starter Dock Ellis departed after nine scoreless innings of three-hit hurling. And after 13, San Diego starter Clay Kirby left after yielding eight hits and no runs.

The Bucs won it—and moved within 2½ games of the Mets in the National League East—in the 18th inning on infield hits by Al Oliver and Stargell, a double steal, an intentional walk and Mike Corkins' unintentional bases-loaded walk to Gene Alley.

The Phils finally won a game—only their second in 21—to snap a nine-game tailspin. "God, what a difference winning makes!" said overjoyed Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Mike Jorgensen drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple in the third inning to power Montreal past Atlanta. Burt Hooton of the Cubs gave up 13 hits—but all of them were singles. And only one of them, Frank Robinson's, resulted in a run for the Dodgers.

The only two hits Chicago added were Carmen Fanzone's free-run homer and Billy Williams' two-run shot.

Reggie Cleveland fired a five-hitter at San Francisco for the Cardinals and Joe Torre gave him the only run he needed with a homer off Juan Marichal, who went down to his ninth defeat.

Redlands Has Slim Margin

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Redlands, Calif., University, Presbyterian, East Texas State and Southeastern Oklahoma State were involved in a tight scramble for team honors today as the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tennis tournament moved into the quarter-finals.

Redlands, seeking its seventh consecutive title, led with 33 points followed by Presbyterian with 31, East Texas State with 30 and Southeastern Oklahoma State with 27.

While Redlands is still expected to squeeze through, the Californians had only two remaining singles players and had lost its top-seeded doubles twosome, Seabury Stanton and Randy Verdieck.

Three Redlands singles players, Rich Tripp, Stanton and Mike Finkelstein were eliminated Wednesday. Tripp lost to No. 1-seeded Milan Kofol of Presbyterian 6-2, 6-1. Stanton bowed to Harry Fritz of East Texas, seeded No. 5, 7-5, 6-2, and Finkelstein lost to No. 6 Dave Kubus of Gustavus Adolphus 6-1, 2-6, 10-8.

The two Redlands singles stars remaining were John Brush, No. 2 seed, and Verdieck, No. 3. Brush turned back Terry Johnston of Quincy, Ill., 6-2, 6-0 and Dave Phillips of Southeastern Oklahoma 6-0, 6-2. Verdieck eliminated Mohammed Ajid of Columbus 6-3, 6-3 and Doug Dean of Pasadena, Calif., 6-2, 7-5.

Verdieck and Stanton were beaten in the doubles feature by Phillips and Dean White of Southeastern Oklahoma 6-4, 6-4.

Kofol, in addition to beating Tripp, stopped Javier Sanjines of High Point, N.C., 6-2, 6-1. Kimm Kettelsen of Southeastern Oklahoma came through as the No. 4 seed, beating Leigh Ford of Oshkosh, Wis., State 6-1, 6-1 and Don Lay of Presbyterian 6-3, 6-2.

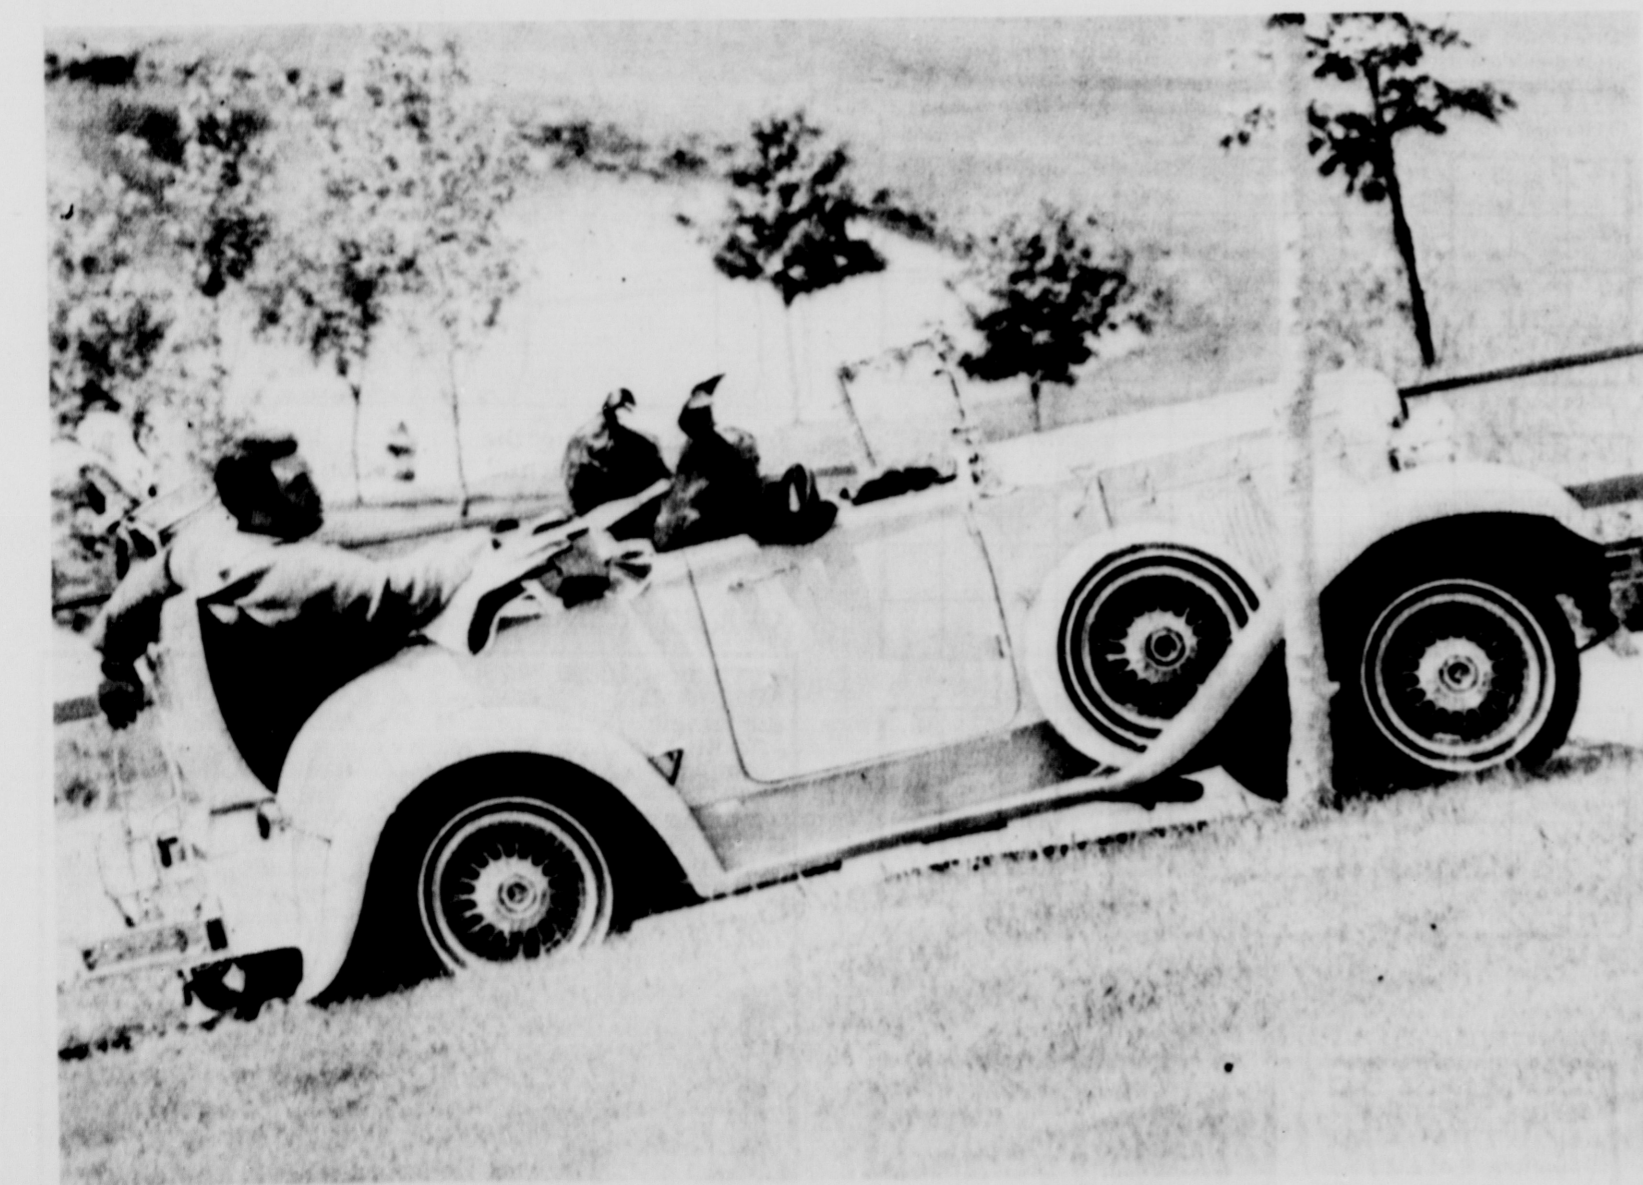

Fritz, before beating Stanton, defeated Ben Simms of Texas Southern 6-3, 6-3. Kubus won his fourth round match but had trouble with John McGee of East Texas before winning 6-1, 2-6, 10-8.

Doty Seeks Second Horse Race Victory

Fred Doty, last week's winner in the Walnut Hills Country Club "horse race," will be back to defend his championship against a field of nine other golfers tonight.

This week's entries include Vern Bingham, Lloyd Banaka, Dale Maggard, Bob Austin, Sr., Cecil Lujan, Dr. Clifford Kateman, Norm Capps, Morris Brown and Neil Doty.

Competition on the front nine of the WHCC 18-hole course will begin at 6 p.m.

Oh, The Pains of Playing Golf

Weighing down the rear end of a custom made antique automobile, Roger Brown of the Los Angeles Rams rides the rumble seat as he is driven around the links at the Playboy Club course in Lake Geneva, Wis., Wednesday.

Brown, along with football players from all over the country, contributed a day of golf in memory of Brian Piccolo, the Chicago Bears' halfback, who died of cancer. (UPI)

Lonesome Frank

Los Angeles Dodgers' outfielder Frank Robinson walks back to his position after chasing Chicago Cubs' Billy Williams' deep drive in the first inning, Wednesday night. Robinson's long run netted nothing, as a young fan (directly above Robinson) made the catch. Unfortunately for the Dodgers, the catch was not made until the drive had gone out of the park for a two-run homer.

Low putts for each club were as follows: Kay Chapin, Clinton Country Club; Andy Shade, Meadowlake (Clinton); Irma Gustin, Marshall; Helen Fitzwilliam, Sedalia Country Club; Erma Priest, Warrensburg; Reba Postels, Westmoreland; Betty Lesco, Whiteman Air Force Base; Virginia Van Slyke, Windsor; Kay Simon, Tipton; Marianna Pelham, Walnut Hills.

USAC Denies Gurney Appeal

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A $72,000 penalty against race driver Jerry Grant was upheld today by the United States Auto Club's board of judges.

Grant was dropped from second to 12th place in the Indianapolis 500 auto race May 27 for using fuel from teammate Bobby Unser's reserve tank.

The U.S.A.C. panel said, "The appeal panel is of the opinion that a rules violation clearly took place and the stewards ruled properly. Accordingly, the appeal panel unanimously agrees the Gurney-Grant appeal is denied."

Charles T. Brockman, U.S.A.C. president, read the decision in his capacity as chief judge of the appeal panel.

The decision cited the 500-mile race Supplementary Regulation No. 23. "The maximum fuel supply other than that carried in the car, shall be 250 gallons stored in one cylindrical container of not more than 400 gallons maximum capacity."

The decision said that while the supplementary rule was established originally for safety to reduce the fire hazard in the pits, as the fuel consumption of the racing engines increased substantially, it eventually became a racing rule, which could have a decisive effect on competition.

The decision said, "The appeal panel does not dispute Mr. Gurney's testimony that the refueling operation was a mistake and that the car did not need additional fuel."

The panel concedes that Mr. Gurney's chronology of events is very plausible and in all probability is entirely true.

"However, the appeal panel does not feel that his line of testimony is relevant. The stewards cannot be responsible for the mistake of a contestant."

The panel said the fuel regulation did not state a specific penalty. It said, "The stewards' reason that car No. 48 (Grant) was legal through the completion of 188 laps and therefore should be credited with that distance. However, at the point the violation occurred, the car was no longer legal, and should not be credited with any laps after that point."

The protest against Grant and Gurney was filed by George Bignotti, crew chief for the Parnelli Jones team. The decision advanced three of Bignotti's drivers in the final standings.

Crime in Sports

Will Subpoena Frank Sinatra

WASHINGTON (AP) — After being snubbed on its "invitation" to Frank Sinatra, a congressional committee will now subpoena the show business figure to tell what he knows about organized crime in sports.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Select Committee on Crime, said Sinatra had agreed originally to appear Wednesday for testimony on his role as one-time vice president of Berkshire Downs race track in Hancock, Mass.

Pepper said Sinatra will now be subpoenaed. Committee sources said the singer-actor would be called to testify on July 18. Sinatra was reported at races in England on Wednesday.

The committee may not have had Sinatra, but it had two vocal witnesses on opposite sides of the track on the subject of legalized gambling.

"People today do not view gambling as a matter of moral concern but primarily as a source of entertainment," said Howard "Howie the Horse" Samuels, head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corp.

To back it up, Samuels reported first-year profits of $15 million, of which 80 per cent went to the city and 20 per cent to state government.

"If government is truly serious about combating organized crime, we must begin to compete," he declared, adding that a survey done for OTB showed that its legal betting shops had reduced the number of bets placed with illegal bookmakers.

The man on the other side of the issue, Dist. Atty. William Cahn of Long Island's Nassau County, couldn't have disagreed more.

Legalized gambling, he said, would have no major effect on organized crime, but it would have an effect on organized sports.

"Professional and collegiate sports are a way of life in this country," Cahn maintained. "Everything must be done to prevent the corrupting influence of crime to destroy it. Legalizing the most corruptive of all influences is not the answer."

Columbia A's Open CMBJ Play With Win

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — The Columbia A's opened their 1972 Central Missouri Ban Johnson slate Wednesday night with an 11-4 win over Centralia. It was Centralia's second loss of the season and dropped them into the cellar of the eastern division in the CMBJ standings.

Ray Ash, who worked through seven and one-third innings in no-hit fashion, was the winning pitcher. Ed Eisle took the loss.

Ash was touched for only three hits, all of which came in the eighth. One was a two-run homer off the bat of Kirk Bays, with Ron Rimsley aboard. Rick Rimsley followed Bays' homer with a double, while Norm Leigh added a single before the inning could be completed.

Six Columbia errors in the ninth accounted for the remaining two Centralia runs.

Howe Into Hall of Fame

MONTREAL (AP) — All-time scoring champion Gordie Howe led six new members elected into Hockey's Hall of Fame at the National Hockey League annual meetings yesterday.

Howe, who scored 786 goals in 25 seasons for Detroit, and Jean Beliveau, who scored 504 in 18 seasons for Montreal, were both elected without having to wait the usual five years after their retirement.

Also elected were former Montreal great Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, now coach of the expansion Atlanta Flames; Harry (Hap) Holmes, Hooley Smith and Weston W. Adams.

Holmes, an oldtime goaltender, and Smith, who played right wing and center, are both deceased. Adams is the chairman of the board of the Boston Bruins and was the only executive elected.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Old man Z called for the jack of diamonds from dummy. East produced the king and Z let it hold. The 10 was returned and Z had to play his ace.

He remarked, "When I played this hand for Sidney Lenz in a rubber bridge game in 1924 I made sure of three no-trump by playing three rounds of hearts and then leading dummy's last diamond. I discarded two clubs from dummy and two clubs and a heart from my hand. West could lead anything he wished but it didn't matter. The lead was sure to give me my ninth trick."

By this time Z had a good enough count to know that East had started with five spades. This made the odds that he would hold the queen a substantial five to two and Z picked it up to make six no-trump and a top score instead of a safe three no-trump for a bottom score.

TV Regulation Bill Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulation of radio-television networks was proposed Thursday by a congressman who says Americans are being fed "a steady diet of violence, brutality and sadism."

"The portrayal of violence is one of the easiest ways to attract an audience," said Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., "and most important of all, it sells soap."

And as long as we in Congress give them the option of 'doing better' or making money, I am afraid they will choose the latter course."

Legislation he introduced would give the Federal Communications Commission regulatory power over prime-time programming by NBC, CBS and ABC.

While saying he has no intention of stimulating government control of TV shows, Murphy said he wants to encourage competition and proliferation of network and non-network sources of programming.

Murphy, a member of the House Commerce Committee which watches over the broadcast industry, added in a statement that the networks alone have "the capability to produce quality television on a sustained basis. We need them."

"My bill would not take this function away from them—it would only make them produce programs more in the public interest."

While claiming to oppose censorship, he said, "I do feel that there is a mechanism by which we can reduce the level of network-TV violence by utilizing the concept of program balance as now applied to broadcast licenses by the FCC."

Murphy insisted his proposal would give the FCC "no control over the content of network programs."

2—Cards of Thanks

I WISH TO THANK my many friends and relatives for the many acts of kindness and sympathy, for the prayers, cards, food and flowers that were sent at the time of the death of my husband. Also ones who furnished music, the doctors and nurses at Bothwell Hospital, and pallbearers. A special thanks for the comforting words of Rev. Speaker and Rev. Woolery.

God Bless You All

Mrs. Thomas L. Brown and Family

Just What Are Refined Foods?

Dear Dr. Lamb — Several months ago you ran an article about refined foods and colon diseases. You said the U.S. has a higher rate of colon disease than certain other countries. I didn't quite grasp the article because I didn't know what you meant by "refined foods." You mentioned that bran is good to take. Please tell me what refined foods are and just how do they affect the colon. Besides bran what else can a person eat to avoid this colon problem? I eat a good amount of egg yolks, cakes, candy, fried foods, bread and other fattening foods. I am 24 years old. Do you think I should start cutting these foods out of my diet?

Dear Reader — Yes, I do. The time to start doing something about staying young and healthy is while you still are — not after you have already lost your youth and your health.

Cakes and candy are good examples of refined foods. Generally, refined foods refers to sugar which is a refined product leaving almost nothing but pure carbohydrate without minerals, roughage or vitamins. White flour has had the husk and germ of the wheat removed and even though it is enriched by vitamins to the point that it usually has more vitamins than the original wheat, it still has lost a lot of the roughage quality that comes with normal wheat grain. Cake flour is often much worse, being devoid of many of the vitamins that normally occur with wheat.

Refined foods are items which are made principally of refined sugar, syrups, and other concentrated sweets. This also includes most bread.

The roughage foods that most people should eat include the vast array of good wholesome vegetables and fruit. This also includes whole grain products like oatmeal, cracked wheat, and other whole cereal products.

The refined foods without bulk lead to constipation, irritable colon, colitis and on a world-wide epidemiological analysis constitutes a major portion of the diet of those people who have a higher incidence of cancer of the colon. We do know that eating more roughage, which again includes vegetables, fruits and whole grain cereals, is very helpful in relieving the common problem of constipation and irritable colon in many people.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Are gelatin tablets fattening? I am taking them for nails and hair, but will discontinue usage if they create a weight problem.

Dear Reader — Gelatin tablets have very few calories because they contain no fat or sugar. You would have to take an awful lot to significantly increase your caloric intake. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Tough Hijack Stance

Benjamin O. Davis, assistant transportation secretary for safety and consumer affairs, at a Washington news conference Wednesday, urged airlines to end their policy of going along with hijackers and get tough. He claimed that hijackers often get better treatment than first class passengers. (UPI)
